4 KILLED, 12 INJURED, SUNDAY AUTOMOBILE TOLL IN ACCIDENTS

Mrs. H. Gross and Lena, Daughter, Lose Lives in Car's Plunge.

MRS. F. MARQUESS, HIT, DIES IN ARMS OF SON

Found Unconscious on Road, B. K. Elliott Succumbs in Georgetown Hospital.

Motor accidents on the streets of Washington and nearby Maryland yesterday killed a mother and her daughter, another woman, fatally injured a man, and resulted in injuries to twelve other persons.

Mrs. Hilda Gross, 39 years old, and her daughter, Lena, 16 years old, of Towson, Md., were killed about 3 o'clock when the automobile in which they were riding hurtled from the Washington-Baltimore boulevard near the Laurel Race Track. Three others Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stumtsall and Matthew Dasch, were slightly injured Mrs. Gross's husband, Matthias Gross who was driving, was the only occupant of the machine who was not injured

The heavily-laden Gross car was bound for Washington, from Towson. According to witnesses, who were along the road, it was traveling about 30 miles an hour. For no apparent reason, according to witnesses, the car left the highway, which at that point is raised about 2 feet As it went off the roadside, it turned over on its side, and hurtled through space. The roof of the machine struck a telegraph pole and was ripped off

Scores Go to Rescue.

Scores of passing motorists stopped and went to the aid of those in the wreck. All except Mr Gross had been tossed out of the machine as it struck the telegraph pole

Four doctors were in the crowd that assembled. They said that Mrs. Gross died instantly. The daughter lived for about ten minutes The injuries to the others were all of a minor character, consisting largely of cuts and bruises. They were treated by the doctors on the scene and later were sent to their homes.

After waving farewell to her son in front of her home yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Fillmore Marquess, 60 years old, of Chesapeake Beach, Md., stepped into the path of an automobile driven, police reported, by Walter S. Harewood, 2028 Fulton street northeast, and was killed instantly.

Harewood was held last night at Chesapeake Beach to await an inquest into Mrs. Marquess' death, which will be conducted there this morning by Sheriff Maurice Buckler and Justice of the Peace J. E. Donald. No charge was placed against him.

Waves Farewell, Killed.

Sheriff Buckler said that Mrs. Marquess stopped at the side of the road to talk a while with her son. After concluding the conversation she waved a farewell, stepped from behind a parked automobile and walked directly into the path of Harewood's machine. He applied the brakes instantly, Sheriff Buckler said, but was unable to bring the machine to a stop before striking the woman. She died in her son's arms.

Found lying unconscious on Shelly road, Arlington County, last night, Elwood K. Elliott, 69 years old, 1209 Sixth street northeast, was taken to Georgetown Hospital suffering from fractures of both legs, a fractured arm, possible fractured skull and internal injuries. He died early this morning. Dr. Gerald Scully treated him.

Elliott was found by B. M. DeLashmutt, of Arlington, between Hatfield and Hunter Stations. He was brought to the hospital by County Policemen W. E. Thompson and Harry Woodyard The policemen said that Elliott had evidently been struck by a "hit-and-run" driver.

While playing in the street at Alabama and Branch avenues southeast yesterday afternoon, Armenia Wendle, 14 years old, of Bradbury Heights, D. C., and Lois Talbert, 16 years old, of 2210 Twenty-fifth street southeast, were run down by an automobile driven by Clarence H. Langley, 33 years old, of 631 Raleigh court southeast. Miss Talbert was seriously hurt.

Has Concussion of Brain.

They were taken to Casualty Hospital in an automobile by Bret Woods, of 2724 Alabama avenue, and Edward Bowles, of 2800 Alabama avenue, and treated by Dr. Lawrence Murphy. Miss Talbert was treated for concussion of the brain and severe bruises about the head. Her companion suffered abrasions and cuts to the body.

Walter N. Cook, 50 years old, a marine, stationed at Quantico, Va., was felled by a "hit-and-run" driver yesterday morning at Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest. He was treated at Emergency Hospital for cuts to the arms and face.

The Rev. William Ryan, assistant pastor of St. Ann's Catholic Church, of 4347 Nebraska avenue northwest, was treated at Georgetown University Hospital for shock and minor injuries, following a traffic mishap yesterday

Spire, Beacon and Chimes To Commemorate Lincoln

Kin of Martyred President Will Restore Steeple of Church in Which He Worshipped Here; $101,000 on Hand for Lot.

The old spire on the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, blown down during the severe wind and rain storm the night of September 29, 1896, will be rebuilt by Mrs. Robert Todd Lincoln and other relatives of the Civil War President and in its lofty tower will be placed a massive set of chimes and a beacon light to guide the flight of aviators passing over the city in the night.

Work on the new steeple will begin in the near future, according to an announcement made yesterday by the Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo, pastor of the church, which recently observed its 125th anniversary. The spire will be built as a memorial to Abraham Lincoln, who during his Presidency attended the church.

Announcement also was made at the evening service last night that $101,467.25 of the fund of $150,000 sought to purchase the property to the west of the church had been subscribed during the day. A parish house will be built on the new property, according to Dr. Sizoo.

The Scripture lesson last night was read from the old family Bible of the Rev. James Laurie, first pastor of the church, who brought the Bible with him when he came to this country from Scotland.

One hundred members of the church comprise the "loyalty fund" committee which is soliciting pledges for funds from the membership of the church for the purpose of constructing the parish house.

2 OVERCOME, 2 RESCUED AS APARTMENTS BURN

Mother and Daughter Smoke Victims in Fire Causing Four Alarms.

FLAMES FANNED BY DRAFT

Two persons were overcome by smoke, two others carried to safety by firemen and a score of apartment dwellers forced to flee scantily clad to the street, when a four-alarm fire threatened to destroy the three-story brick Coblentz Apartment at North Capitol and Florida avenue last night. Fire Chief George Watson estimated the damage at $10,000.

Mrs. J. D. Coblentz, 50 years old, wife of the owner of the building, and her daughter Miss Lillian J. Coblentz, 15 years old, were the smoke victims. They were taken to Sibley Hospital where they were restored to consciousness. The two were overcome in their beds and were carried out by the first of the fire companies to answer.

Mr. Coblentz was also asleep when the fire started, but he was aroused by the odor of smoke. He turned in the first alarm. Immediately after the first companies arrived, they turned in a second alarm. This was followed quickly by a third, while the fourth was turned in some time later when drafts gave the flames further strength.

Mrs. E. F. Robinson and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. F. M. Robinson, trapped in their third floor apartments were carried down a rear fire escape to safety

Entrance of Bank In Bulgaria Bombed

Sofia, Bulgaria, May 6 (A.P.).—A bomb was exploded at the main entrance of the Bulgarian Bank of Commerce early today, badly damaging the masonry and windows, but without injury to persons.

It was believed to be the work of extremists who are dissatisfied with the amount of advances made by the bank for the relief of earthquake sufferers.

POINCARE TO UPHOLD CONCORDAT IN ALSACE

(Special Cable Dispatch.)

Paris, May 6.—The Alsatian question moved to the very forefront of the French political scene today when Premier Poincare in a speech at Metz, ancient capital of Lorraine, declared that "France firmly is resolved never to let go of a single parcel of Lorraine or Alsace, and France will never consent to the creation of a neutral or autonomous state.

But what is really significant in the premier's speech, and proves that France heeded the warning of the elections, are these words:

"The republic promised to respect the traditions and customs of the recovered provinces and preserve their educational and religious status, that is to say, the confessional, bilingual instruction, and concordat." "We have kept this romise, and will keep it."

Poincare has changed the whole Alsatian problem. Heretofore preponderantly Catholic Alsace lay awake nights worrying that the anti-clerical French would close the religious schools, monasteries and convents, as they had done in France, and nullify the concordat.

Mrs. Whitney Bliss' Yacht, Overdue, Safe

Miami, Fla., May 6 (A.P.).—The 40-foot cabin cruiser Lovina, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Whitney Bliss, of Coral Gables, missing for several hours in Biscayne Bay, reached its dock at Cocoanut Grove at 1 a. m. today. Engine trouble, which developed off Soldier Key, delayed the craft's return.

All available craft at Coast Guard base No. 6, Fort Lauderdale, had searched vainly for the missing yacht since early last evening. The vessel did not go outside the bay because of a high wind.

PAULDING CREW CLEARED IN LOSS OF SUBMARINE

Coast Guard Report Blames Navy Department for S-4 Catastrophe.

IS APPROVED BY MELLON

Absolving officers of the United States Coast Guard destroyer Paulding of responsibility or negligence in the sinking of the submarine S-4 off Provincetown Harbor, Mass., December 17 and commending Lieut. Comdr. J. S Baylis, in command of the Paulding, for his conduct attending and following the collision of his vessel and the submarine, the report of the Coast Guard Board of Inquiry was approved and made public today by Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon.

The report places the full responsibility for the catastrophe, which cost the lives of all of the officers and crew of the S-4, squarely upon the Navy Department, whose board of inquiry had previously attached serious blame to Lieut. Comdr. Baylis for failing to sight the submarine.

"Had a submarine warning flag been displayed as shown on the hydrographic office pilot charts and in the Navy signal manual, or had the commanding officer of the Paulding knowledge of the operations of submarines in this vicinity at that time, no collision would have occurred," the Coast Guard board's opinion read.

The Coast Guard board of inquiry was made up of Capt. A L. Gamble, Capt. William J. Wheeler, Capt. Robert B Adams, engineer in chief; Commander S. Root and Commander R. R. Waesche, and was named by Secretary Mellon when Secretary of the Navy Curtis D Wilbur ordered the matter of the Paulding's responsibility referred to the Treasury, which has supervision over the Coast Guard. The findings and Keyton told police that he was examining a .32-caliber automatic pistol which he believed to be unloaded He accidentally discharged the revolver, Keyton told police, and the bullet went through his left hand and struck Miss Cufferson who was standing nearby. The couple was treated by Dr. Lawrence Murphy, of Casualty Hospital.

LINDBERGH RESCUED FROM ADMIRING MOB

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, May 6.—Caught in a mob of milling, shouting admirers, fighting for a look at him, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had to be rescued by a squadron of excited policemen at Curtiss Field, Long Island, this afternoon. Two women were knocked down and trampled upon, scores were menaced by propellers of planes arriving and leaving the field, babies were endangered by parents who held them high for a peek at Lindbergh and some 2,000 had a very unpleasant half hour.

Lindbergh, fearful that his plane might cause injury in the crush, was in a prison of frenzied humanity for twenty minutes before motorcycle policemen could break a path to peace and quiet for him.

A cry went up as Lindbergh's monoplane appeared, nearing the field. As he spiraled to a landing excited air fans ran helter-skelter over the field seeking the spot where they supposed Lindbergh's plane would touch first. The police were helpless. Three motorcycle policemen joined them. Finally Lindbergh's automobile was able to reach the side of the cockpit. The motor proceeded at a snail's pace through the throng while three motorcycle policemen broke the way.

200,000 PEASANTS DEMAND ROUMANIA DISMISS PREMIER

WOULD OPEN DOOR TO CAROL'S RETURN

Maniu, Leader of People, Hints at Force; Prince Ready to Go Back.

Alba Julia, Roumania, May 6 (A.P.). Two hundred thousand peasants, forming the largest political assemblage in modern Europe, raised their voices today in a mighty crescendo demanding that the regency dismiss the present Bratiano government as illegally elected, incompetent, tyrannical and unrepresentative of the will of the people

No national political convention in the United States could rival today's gigantic referendum of the people for quaint and colorful features.

It seemed as if the whole of rural Roumania, electrified by the eloquence of the peasant leader, Juliu Maniu had suddenly emerged from its age long slumber of virtual serfdom into political consciousness

Door Open to Carol.

The congress passed a resolution which is interpreted as meaning that if Maniu obtains power he may recommend the abolition of the regency or some radical change which might leave the door open to Prince Carol, either as a regent or as a successor to King Michael.

The resolution read: "This congress reiterates its monarchical sentiment, but declares that the form of the government depends entirely upon its conception by the people, who possess the privilege to change the existing form if they consider a change desirable."

After the various resolutions had been read aloud to the huge assembly, the demonstrators, with raised hands, took the following oath: "We swear to the great and good God to fight a righteous fight against the government which is a plague to the country and which was nominated by a decree wrung from King Ferdinand on his deathbed. We swear that a new Roumania shall be created which shall stand for freedom and justice to all of Roumania's brave sons"

It was then resolved that the peasants form in three columns to march to Bucharest. Leaders of the party will meet tomorrow in Brasov, where they will await the government's reply to their demand. Maniu will go to Bucharest and formally hand the resolutions to the regency.

Force, If Necessary.

While Maniu, Mihilachi, Majadearu and other peasant leaders were speaking inside the theater, the enormous crowd outside cheered thunderously.

Taking the correspondent of the Associated Press by the arm to the balcony where they could survey the crowd,

SMYRNA FEELS QUAKE; RETRIBUTION IS SEEN

Constantinople, May 6 (A.P.).—A short but violent earthquake shook Smyrna last night. No serious damage has been reported. Disastrous effects in Anatolia of the earthquake Thursday were reported in messages reaching here today which had been delayed by disruption of the telegraph lines.

The village of Daghardi, near Kutaiha, was said to have been destroyed completely, with two persons killed and 60 injured. One was killed in the destruction of the village of Inekollou near Broussa. Three other villages were badly damaged and thousands rendered homeless.

The recent earthquakes and the fear of more to come have caused a religious stir among the Moslem peasantry who attribute the catastrophes to the recent action of the government in renouncing Islam as the state religion and to earlier attacks on Moslem fundamentalism. Although manifestoes calling for religious revolt are being clandestinely distributed, little is expected to come of it since the army is solidly behind the government.

Spanish Fliers Wait For Better Weather

Seville, Spain, May 6 (A.P.).—The Spanish aviators Iglesias and Jiminez who are planning to fly to the American continent, still were at the flying field here today waiting for favorable weather.

The airmen originally had intended to take off today, but postponed the hop-off on reports of disturbed atmospheric conditions between Spain and America, although it was stated the fliers would find good weather as far as the Canaries and the Antilles. The destination of the fliers has been shrouded in secrecy, but it is the general opinion here that it will be Cuba.

HUGE FIRST BALLOT PLANNED FOR SMITH IN CONCERTED DRIVE

More Than Two-Thirds Vote Is Desired to Show Harmony.

HONOR FOR FAVORITE SONS NOT PRECLUDED

696 Claimed for Governor Now; Opposition in South Reported Melting.

By ALBERT W FOX

There is a concerted movement on foot now to provide Gov. Smith with more than a two-thirds vote on the first ballot at Houston, despite the fact that the governor and some of his closest advisors are not encouraging any program based on elimination of complimentary votes for other candidates.

Even before the California primaries, two or more of the favorite son candidates had expressed a willingness to have their delegates vote at once for the New York Governor in order that the overwhelming character of the Smith vote from the very start might be an added symbol of Democratic harmony.

These suggestions brought expressions of deep appreciation from the Smith leaders, but it was promptly stated that Smith was disinclined to ask any favorite son to dispense with the honor which would come from the avowed support of his own State, duly registered. This was further explained to be part of the governor's general program of insisting that every consideration every courtesy and every legitimate advantage be given to all the other Democratic candidates in the race for the nomination.

Acclimation Is Alternative.

But the California primary and an analysis of the present status of Smith's strength and the latest reports of changed outlook in the solid South have combined to revive the idea of the two-thirds vote on the first ballot with nomination by acclamation as the alternative. It is declared in the light of the clearly indicated line-up of delegates at Houston, that considerably more than the required two-thirds may be obtained without disturbing any of the favorite son candidacies against their inclinations.

MEN TOIL TO SAVE DAM AS RAIN ADDS TO PERIL

Armed Deputies Hold Back Sightseers at Table Rock, S. C., Flood Menace.

CITIZENS SEEK REFUGE

Table Rock Cove, S. C., May 6 (A.P.). A cold rain today added to the menace created by a leak in the earthen dam across Saluda Creek here which developed two days ago, sending thousands of residents of the low lands to temporary havens on nearby hill tops

Heeding the warning of the low hanging clouds, engineers working to hold the dam which impounds 5,000,000,000 gallons of water, put crews to work trenching the sides of Table Rock Mountain to prevent drainage soaking the end of the dyke.

Engineers said that this had sloughed against the mountain and they believed it acted as a prop to the dam and that so long as it was kept intact and free from treacherous boils and freshets the possibility of preventing a break was increased.

Col. J. L. Loudlow, Winston-Salem N. C., engineer who constructed the dam at a cost of $2,000,000 announced that his plan to stuff sand bags about the drain pipe where the leak developed had been abandoned, as the bags would not prevent erosion. Rain, he thought, would do little damage unless it continued for two or three days.

Confidence that the dam would hold and gradually release the waters in the lake behind it was expressed today by

MARINE MASCOT DIES, MARTYR TO BASEBALL

"Private Pagett" Succumbs to Heat and Is Buried With Highest Honors.

Quantico, Va., May 6 (A.P.).—The Marine Corps yesterday buried their bulldog mascot, Private Pagett, the gift of the Royal Marines of England, and the second canine mascot of their service to die in a year.

Private Pagett died last night of heat exhaustion and was buried with full honors late yesterday by the Marine Baseball Team. He, however, in the last few days of his life, had done "his bit," having accompanied the corps baseball nine on a four-day trip through Virginia.

Private Pagett succeeded Sergt.-Maj Jiggs, another bulldog, who died a year ago, as the corps mascot. As the English bulldog had traveled over 10,000 miles as mascot to the Marine athletic teams, a monument will be erected to him by the baseball and football squads.

At the time of his death Private Pagett was 3 years and 3 months old and weighed 48 pounds. He was registered with the English and American kennel clubs.

CHINESE OUTRAGES MAY CAUSE STERN ACTIONS BY JAPAN

"What Will Tokyo Do?" Is Being Asked in the Far East.

NATIVES CHALLENGED, REPLIES GEN. CHIANG

Foreigners Buried Alive or Set Afire, Searching Parties Report.

Nanking, China, May 6 (A.P.).—In a statement telegraphed from Tsinan and dated Friday, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, leader of the Nationalist army, said that the British and American consuls were mediating between himself and the Japanese

He added "the Japanese troops have challenged us. For no reason whatever they fired upon our soldiers and civilians and more than 1,000 of our officials, soldiers and civilians have been killed. I can not bow to such bullying. I propose to expose such Japanese deliberate brutality to the world."

Tientsin, China, May 6 (A.P.).—Commander Arai, of the Japanese force here, today warned Gen. Sun Chuan Fang and Gen. Chang Tsung Chang not to continue military activity in the Province of Shantung. They had been reported to be preparing an attack on the southern forces at Tsinan, taking advantage of the present chaotic conditions.

Radio communication from Tsinan was again threatened today when a northern airplane bombed the Tsinan power station which supplies current to the Japanese wireless. Considerable damage was said to have been done to the station

"What Will Japan Do?"

Peking, China, May 6 (A.P.).—With the rifles at Tsinan silent since Friday and the warfare at least temporarily stilled, the whole Orient today anxiously awaited answer to its query, "What will Japan do?" The chief attention is now focused on Tokyo, where the Diet was reported in extraordinary session to consider relations with China.

Assurances of the safety of the American, British and German communities limit the issue to Japan and Nationalist China. The American Consul has reported to Shanghai that American and German lives and property are safe, while similar assurances have reached British diplomats.

The Japanese troops at Tsinan, wearied by several days of fighting and with the tension of uninterrupted guarding of their nationals concentrated in the consulate and its vicinity, have been relieved by 2,000 soldiers who had made a forced march overland from Singtao under Maj. Gen. Toakura.

Strong Measures Favored.

The latest Japanese accounts are calculated to strengthen the advocates of Tokyo taking strong measures as the result of the Tsinan trouble. The Japanese consul there in a message giving the first details of the sufferings of his civilian compatriots, said at least fourteen had died cruelly at the hands of the Nationalists The bodies, including those of women were found with unmentionable mutilations, he said, and others were defaced beyond recognition.

He stated that some of the women who have survived had been assaulted and feared that the death roll will be still larger after a complete check. At least 100 Japanese houses were pillaged. Twenty wounded had been brought to a place of safety

Japanese military officials place the casualties even higher and express their belief that there possibly were 100 Japanese civilians killed. Searching parties, recovering the bodies of Japanese in the area between the foreign settlement and the walled city, which was a sort of no man's land and found several which apparently had been buried alive, while others had been burned after drenching in kerosene and hastily buried by the Chinese as if to hide evidence of these deaths.

No Neutral Version at Hand.

While the Nationalists and Japanese have made countercharges that the incident originated with the other, a neutral version is not available nor will it be until normal communications are restored, which is not likely to be soon.

Meanwhile the Japanese versions are the determining factor for they will dictate the next move, which now is in the hands of Tokyo The Chinese of north and south alike are anxiously watching Japanese popular and government reactions to see whether that nation has been patriotically aroused to back a program for larger intervention in Shantung, or whether the politicians will refuse a truce in the bitter domestic party conflict which stays Tokyo's hands abroad.

Tomorrow, May 7, is "humiliation day," the anniversary of Japan's ultimatum of 21 demands in 1915. Since that year the day throughout China has annually been the occasion of anti-Japanese demonstrations. It now occurs in what is considered the gravest Chino-Japanese crisis since the 1915 war threat.

It is feared that in Nationalist territory at least there may be a revival of

JUDGE BRENT DIES WHEN STRICKEN BY ACUTE INDIGESTION

HEADED CIRCUIT COURT, AND WAS 73 YEARS OLD

Funeral Will Be Held Today; Annexation Proceedings Involved in Demise.

Judge Samuel G. Brent, circuit court judge of Arlington, Fairfax, Prince William counties and Alexandria City, 73 years old, died unexpectedly at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Jean French Braddock Heights, Arlington County, yesterday morning. He was stricken with acute indigestion.

Judge Brent, who was born in Alexandria, was for many years corporation attorney for the city of Alexandria and was appointed Commonwealth's attorney of the city by Judge J. K. M. Norton to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Leonard Marbury. He held that office until 1917 when he was appointed circuit court judge by Gov. Stuart to fill the unexpired term of Judge J. B. T. Thornton. He held that office until his death.

The death of Judge Brent, who has been sitting in the annexation case brought against Arlington County by the city of Alexandria with Judge Frederick Coleman, of Fredericksburg, and Judge Don P. Halsey, of Lynchburg, is causing concern in the county and the city as to its effect. Counsel for the county were of the opinion that the case, which was set for Wednesday morning in the Arlington County Circuit Court, will be postponed again.

Senator Frank L. Ball, president of the Arlington County Bar Association, announced last night that there will be a meeting of the association within a few days to consider Judge Brent's successor.

Judge Brent is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Jean French, and two sons, Gordon French, of Memphis, Tenn., and George Brent, of California.

Funeral services will be conducted today at 4 o'clock at the home of his daughter by the Rev. Dr. William J. Morton, rector of Christ Church, of Alexandria. Burial will be in St. Paul's Cemetery in Alexandria.

False Alarm Follows Blaze of Automobile

Firemen who sped to Thirteenth and C streets southwest last night and extinguished a small fire in an automobile impressed the small crowd that gathered very favorably. One member of the crowd decided to have the firemen go through their performance again.

Twenty minutes after the firemen had returned to their quarters they received another alarm from Thirteenth and C streets. Doubts arose in the minds of the company commanders. They feared that perhaps through some oversight they had not completely extinguished the automobile blaze. With sirens screaming, and bells ringing and with downcast expressions on their faces the firemen drew up at the alarm box. But they were unable to find a fire. Police searched for the person who turned in the false alarm.

Lieut. Col. Francis T. A. Junkin, railroad attorney, died last night at his residence, 2633 Sixteenth street northwest, following an illness of several months. He was 64 years old.

Lieut. Col. Junkin served as a railroad attorney and organizer. In 1915 he retired from business, but at the close of the World War he was commissioned a lieutenant colonel and served as a member of the board of contract adjustment of the division of the general staff.

Lieut. Col. Junkin was born in Falling Spring, Rockbridge County, Va., son of the Rev. William Finney Junkin, a Presbyterian minister. He attended Kenyon College, receiving his A. B. and his A. FIGHT FOR CONTROL SEEN IN MARYLAND COUNTY ELECTION

HOOVER IS UNOPPOSED ON PRESIDENTIAL LIST

The fight between former United States Senator O. E. Weller and former State Senator William P. Jackson, of Salisbury, for the control of the Maryland Republican State delegation to the Kansas City convention will be a feature of the Prince Georges County primary elections today, when six delegates will be selected from among a field of eleven candidates

The choice of delegates was injected into the primary through the inability of the Republican State central committee to narrow its selection down to six delegates. The chairmanship of the State's Republican delegation, to which Senator Jackson aspires, hinges upon the results of today's primaries.

The eleven candidates are Thomas T. Littlepage, Howard Proctor, Walter D. Schaeffer, John William [illegible], Phillip J. Wilkes, Arthur C. Keefer, Newton A. James, Robert Green, Mary C. Sunrman, Mrs. Eva C. Chase and Helen Z Cardoza.

Hoover Only Candidate.

Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover is the only Republican who filed in Maryland for the presidential nomination, and in the preferential primary today the voters may either mark their ballots for him or an uninstructed delegation. The Democratic delegation, instructed for Gov. Albert Ritchie, was announced by the Democratic State central committee some time ago.

Philip Goldsborough, of Baltimore, is unopposed for the Republican nomination for United States senator, as is Oliver P. Metzerott, of Chillum, for the Republican nomination for representative from the Fifth Congressional District

Senator William Cabell Bruce and Representative Stephen W. Gambrill, of the Fifth Congressional District, will both have opposition for the Democratic nominations, although they are expected to be renominated by large majorities. Senator Bruce will be opposed by Mrs Virginia Parkhurst, of Berwyn, and Representative Gambrill by D. William Clem, of Mount Rainier

Mayor to Be Elected.

In the town elections Riverdale will elect a mayor, treasurer and three councilmen. Former Mayor John H. Schaeffer is the only candidate for mayor, and H. C Weeks, the incumbent treasurer, is unopposed for reelection. Louis T Lohman and Daniel W. Thompson will contest for the post of councilman from the First ward, vacated by H. K. Clare; Robert Thompson and Allie Bowers, for Fourth ward councilman, while John J Lynch is unopposed in the Second ward and J. F Herring and C. E. Holmes are holdovers in the Third and Fifth wards, respectively.

Bladensburg will elect a board of commissioners, choosing between the so-called Gasch ticket and the Mace ticket.

To Vote On Pumper.

Hyattsville will hold a referendum on the question of raising $15,000 for the purchase of a new pumper for its fire department through an additional tax of 5 cents per $100, and also on the ratification or rejection of the proposed new franchise to Potomac Electric Power Co. for street lighting. It will also elect four councilmen and a treasurer.

Mount Rainier will hold a referendum on a police bill assessment, and will eelct councilmen from the Second and Third wards.

FRENCH GROUP HOLDS ANNIVERSARY PARTY

At a reception attended by members of the diplomatic circles and socially prominent Washingtonians, with the French Ambassador as an honor guest, L'Institute Francais of Washington yesterday made its bow at a reception held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont, 1618 New Hampshire avenue northwest. The occasion marked the 150th anniversary of the proclamation by George Washington to Continental Army troups of treaties of amity with France on behalf of the United States.

The principal address was made by Dr. David Jayne Hill, former Ambassador to Germany and now a trustee of the institute. Paul Claudel, French Ambassador to the United States, delivered an address in response.

Founded with a view to further the friendly relations existing between the United States and the French republic, the institute will study especially the cultural and intellectual relationships Especial attention will be devoted to the French contributions to the early colonial civilization.

The institute plans to encourage the translation of French documents which have left their impress on American civilization. Included among these are the treaties of 1778 and like documents. These the institute has caused to be published in book form.

Senate and House Honor Their Dead

(Associated Press.)

Memorial services were held in both the House and Senate yesterday for members who died recently—the House paying tribute to the memory of Representative Gallivan, of Massachusetts, and the Senate to Senator Ferris, of Michigan.

Gallivan, for many years one of the most picturesque members of Congress, was eulogized by Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the Republican House leader.

Senator Vandenburg, who succeeded Mr. Ferris, and Senator Couzens, of Michigan, eulogized the dead senator, who was one of the few Democrats named by that State to the Senate.

Wisconsin Governor Completes His Flight

The governor and his party made the hop from Pennsylvania in four hours. They were forced down by a storm at the Packers Island yesterday on a flight from Madison, Wis., to New York to invite the crew of the German transatlantic monoplane Bremen to visit Wisconsin.

Great Apes at Private Zoo Help Welcome 100 Guests

With approximately a hundred of his closest friends, including several senators and representatives in Congress, as guests, Victor J. Evans, prominent local attorney, held a reception yesterday afternoon at his estate, Acclimation Park, and displayed for the first time the dream of his lifetime—a private zoo—one of the few in this country, containing many of the rarest animals of the jungles, mountains and plains, some of them the only specimens of their species in the United States.

For many years Mr. Evans has been engaged in the study of rare foreign animals with a view of acclimating them to this country and, possibly, breeding them here. Despite the failure of zoological parks to successfully winter certain types of tropical animals, Mr. Evans has brought these same types through the winter in perfect health by using his own methods.

Spread over the hillsides and in the beautiful valley of his estate are pens, pastures, ponds, house and screened inclosures occupied by strange looking beasts and fowls. About twenty years ago Mr. Evans was the author of an article published by a New York newspaper urging the introduction of farms for fur-bearing animals. Shortly after this article appeared farms for the raising of these animals were started, and most of them have proved very profitable. Meantime, he has been slowly making a collection, housing some types in the local zoological park.

Only during the past week has he removed his chimpanzee, "Joe-Joe," and his orang-utang, "Jiggs," from the local zoo, where they have provided amusement for nearly four years.

Plans for a home, swimming pool and gardens have been completed, and Mr. and Mrs. Evans hope to start construction on these projects on a hill overlooking their zoo by next month.

Several additional shipments of animals are expected from hunters within the next few weeks. Mrs. Evans, who has already trained many of the parrots and macaws, insists she will have a tamed hunting leopard or chetah as a house pet.

The collection contains among others: African antelope, Mexican and American wild turkeys, vulturine guinea fowl from Abyssinia, a spinbok or Indian antelope, king parrots, Australian black-tailed macaws, the rare hyacinth macaw from Brazil, an ant bear from Australia, a sloth bear, dancing cranes, pelicans, beavers, Australian crowned pigeons, bleeding-heart doves from the Philippines, a pair of zebras, green Japanese peacocks, spotted Indian deer, white deer, white peacocks and nearly every species of ducks and swans.

During the afternoon Mrs. Evans treated her guests to an exhibition of her control over the parrots and macaws by putting them through their tricks and Senator C. C. Dill, of Washington, became quite friendly with the hyacinth macaw, taking him from his cage and petting him and the only question is whether all 18 instead of 17 will be on Smith band wagon.

Besides Senator and Mrs. Dill, some of the others at the reception were: Charles H. Burke, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and Mrs. Burke; Senator and Mrs. Peter Norbeck, of South Dakota; Representative and Mrs. Allard Gasque, of South Carolina; Dr. William M. Mann, director of the local zoo; Mr. and Mrs. W Harry King, assistant to Commissioner Hill, of the United States Shipping Board; Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Denby, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Aspinwall, Mrs. A. H. Harlee, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Grant, Harry C. Oberholser, of the Department of Agriculture, and Mrs. Oberholser, and Mr. Edouard Albion, of the Washington Opera Company.

Delaware, 6. Conceded to Smith.

Idaho, 8. Instructed for Smith

Illinois, 57 out of 58. George Brennan, after primary results, lists 57 out and out Smith delegates elected, with 1 in doubt, but State regarded likely now to be unanimous.

Iowa, 26. Instructed for Smith.

Kansas, 11½ out of 20 Check-up on delegation shows Ayres-Smith followers have all but 8 delegates, the latter being for Reed. Ayres is not going to hold the delegation which is instructed for him.

Maine, 12. Instructed for Smith.

Massachusetts, 36 Solid for Smith.

Michigan, 30. Conceded in advance to Smith. The State convention will be held on Wednesday.

Minnesota, 24. Instructed for Smith.

New Hampshire, 8. Instructed for Smith.

Nevada, 6. There is no opposition to Smith delegates to be named Friday.

New Jersey, 28. No opposition to Smith delegates to be named at primaries May 15.

New Mexico, 6. Conceded to Smith.

Nebraska, 15 out of 16. Among the delegates already chosen and pledged to Hitchcock, there is 1 Reed supporter who may hold out, a check-up reveals The rest will go to Smith.

Montana for Smith.

New York (90). Pledged to Smith.

Montana (8). For Smith on the first ballot now that Walsh has withdrawn in favor of Smith.

North Dakota (10). Pledged to Smith

Oklahoma (20). State has agreed to go to Smith when he needs the delegation Will go on first ballot if needed, otherwise may cast a complimentary vote for Reed before joining the Smith column.

Pennsylvania (69½ out of 76). This is National Committeeman Guffey's announcement after the primaries were held. The California victory may increase the total, according to latest reports

Rhode Island (10). Instructed for Smith.

South Dakota (10). Smith delegates have no opposition, but primaries will not be held until May 22.

Vermont (8). No opposition to Smith

Washington (14). Instructed for Smith.

West Virginia (16). National Committeeman Osenton's slate of Smith delegates has no serious opposition, but the primaries will not be held until May 29.

Wyoming (6). State leaders say entire delegation for Smith is assured, with counties already instructing for Smith in advance of convention which meets May 14.

Wisconsin (26). Pledged to Smith

Alaska (6). Pledged to Smith.

Hawaii (6). Pledged to Smith.

Philippines (6). Pledged to Smith.

Porto Rico (6). To vote for Smith.

Virgin Islands (2). Pledged to Smith

Maryland for Smith if Needed.

Maryland's 16 votes, which will be pledged to Gov. Ritchie, will be turned over to Smith on the first ballot, if Smith needs them. In other words, Ritchie is ready to bring this result about the moment the New York governor says the word, but so far it is understood that Smith has not expressed a desire to have this vote until a vote complimentary to the governor of Maryland has been cast at the convention. But it may be that Ritchie will present the vote to Smith at once, especially if the plan for a first ballot two-thirds vote materializes.

Of Ohio's 48 votes, 42 are ready to swing to Smith when former Senator Pomerene says the word, and it is an open secret that the deliverance of this vote will not be long delayed.

Neither former Senator Hitchcock nor Senator Robinson nor Representative Ayres, of Kansas, is likely to hold out against any general program of letting their delegates go early. And there are two other sources of Smith votes to draw from to increase the indicated total of 696 plus the 58 from Maryland and Ohio, which makes 754, or 20½ votes more than the required two-thirds.

How Other States Shape Up.

First, Oregon's 10 votes are expected to drop into the Smith bag when the primaries are held on May 18. Secondly, latest reports from the bloc of remaining States, which were supposed to be anti-Smith, show that the line-up is shaping as follows:

Alabama (24) State-wide primary comes tomorrow, with the understanding that the delegation to the Houston convention will be uninstructed and that each delegate may vote his individual choice. Thus any delegate or delegate-at-large who favors Smith can cast his vote for him at the convention.

Florida (12). The primary election does not occur until June 4, and by that time it is expected that Smith sentiment, which is already in evidence in that State, will crystalize into additional Smith delegates.

Georgia (28) is pledged to Senator George, but there is no indication that the senator plans to hold out against a concerted move in the South to eliminate all real Smith opposition, in case this move gains momentum.

Mississippi is Reluctant.

Mississippi (20) has all along favored a dry candidate, and the delegation from this State does not want to be instrumental in bringing about Smith's nomination. But the State wants to be in a position to support Smith if he is nominated, and Senator Harrison, who will be a delegate at large and an important factor along with his colleague, Senator Stephens, is a Democrat who will work for the success of his party.

North Carolina (24). Here the indications are that the delegates will be uninstructed and free to vote their choices, which would mean a number of Smith votes. Senator Simmons, but more particularly his secretary, who has been very closely linked with McAdoo in the past, has initiated a movement to have the North Carolina delegation pledged to Cordell Hull. Meanwhile Smith supporters talk of the possibility of a North Carolina delegation instructed for Smith.

South Carolina (18). Latest reports from Columbia show dominating dry sentiment and considerable Smith support going hand in glove in advance of the State convention there

Smith Gaining in Texas.

Texas (40). Returns from the county conventions indicate that the Texas delegates will not be instructed against any candidate when the State convention meets on May 22. Meanwhile, the anti-Smith campaign in the State is collapsing in view of the California primaries.

Virginia (24). Late reports from Richmond show pronounced Smith sentiment, and newspaper pools in each case demonstrate overwhelming votes for Smith. This is taken to forecast the defeat of any movement to instruct the delegation against Smith, and it is not regarded as impossible that a resolution instructing the delegates for Smith will be adopted.

Thus a canvass of what has heretofore been regarded as anti-Smith territory in the South shows a marked change all along the line. The favorite-son States of Indiana with 30 votes, Kentucky with 26, Tennessee with 24 and Missouri with 36 are not regarded as necessary in any concerted move to bring about a nomination on the first or second ballots, but there is talk of Hull as a Vice Presidential possibility, which would release Tennessee to Smith and Smith is known to be the second choice in the other three States.

"BOYCOTT" CHARGED BY SIDING ADVOCATE

Merchants Say Opponents Threaten Withdrawal of Takoma Park Trade.

Members of the Takoma Chamber of Commerce and other business men are charging that merchants and others who are opposing Mayor Ben G. Davis in his stand to compel the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co. to vacate public land occupied, in part, by a railroad siding and loading platform are being intimidated by threats of withdrawal of trade if they continue to advocate the retention of the siding and platform at North Takoma.

Lisle Morrison, chairman of the North Takoma Improvement Club, which he said was organized to improve the strip of ground that has been the cause of the bitter controversy, said yesterday that, while he would not call the movement against the merchants a "boycott," he believed many persons who favor the abolition of the siding have agreed to cease trading with business men who hold a contrary view.

The primary election at Takoma Park, Md., today, when a mayor and three councilmen will be selected, is of absorbing interest throughout the Maryland metropolitan area.

Fighting Quartet Beats Interfering Policeman

Policeman J. W. Garner, of the Traffic Bureau, was severely beaten and disarmed early yesterday when he attempted to stop a fight between four negroes in an automobile at North Capitol and H streets. His assailants escaped.

Garner had gone to the car to quell the argument, police reported, and the negroes "ganged" him. During the fight one of the men relieved him of his .38-caliber police service revolver. When the negroes had made their escape in their own car, Cullan took Garner to Casualty Hospital, where he was treated for a probable broken nose and severe bruises of the face. His condition was reported not serious.

Burkhard is being treated at Casualty Hospital by Dr. Lawrence Murphy for a lacerated eye. Gray was arrested by Policeman Miles Znamenacek, of the Eleventh Precinct. He posted $50 collateral for appearance in Police Court today.

CITIZENS FEDERATION CLEARS FOUR DELEGATES

Members Who Have Utilities Interests Are Given Vote of Confidence.

YADEN VOICES HIS WRATH

James C. Yaden, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, last night said he did "not intend to let any disgruntled group of delegates in the federation throw me out" because of his affiliations with the Washington Rapid Transit Co., of which he is a member of the board of directors.

Yaden said he believed there would be no further outbursts in the federation against the four delegates who were alleged to have been influenced by merger interests. The charge against the four delegates threw the federation into an uproar at its meeting Saturday night, but resulted in the delegates being given a clean bill of "health," when the federation gave them a vote of confidence.

"Although I don't intend to run again for the presidency of the federation and wouldn't have the job again if they offered it to me, I'm going to fight any attempt made to get me out of the federation simply because I am a member of the board of directors of the transit company," Yaden added.

Resolutions received from the Trinidad and Columbia Heights citizens' associations, asking that no delegate be admitted to the federation who was employed by public utilities interests, and to which Yaden referred, were tabled at the meeting Saturday night of the federation.

opinion are approved by both Secretary Mellon and Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the Coast Guard.

Stating that "no responsibility and no blame is to be attached to the commanding officer, the officer of the deck or any other person on board the Paulding," the report recommends that no further action be taken and that Lieut. Comdr. Baylis be advised by appropriate official communication that neither he nor any person on the Paulding is held responsible for the collision.

In a summary of findings the report stated that the Paulding was keeping a sharp and efficient lookout, as required by law, but that owing to a choppy sea, the extreme difficulty of picking up an object purposely designed and painted to avoid detection and the fact that no notice had been given of the operation of the submarine in that vicinity, the periscopes of the S-4 were not identified in time to avert the collision.

The action of the Paulding in swinging right full rudder and backing her engines was the correct one as giving the greatest promise of passing clear, the report states, but when the S-4 was sighted upon its emergence 75 yards on the destroyer's port bow, collision was inevitable, notwithstanding the immediate and correct maneuvers undertaken in accordance with Lieut. Comdr. Baylis' orders.

The doctrine of the Naval Submarine Service, as testified to by naval expert witnesses, the report pointed out, is to the effect that the responsibility rests upon a submerged submarine to keep clear of all surface craft.

METHODIST BATTLE ON BISHOPS' POWER FACES CONFERENCE

Amendment Would Strike Out Restrictive Rule on Charge Is Introduced.

CONTEST IN COMMITTEE IS BELIEVED PROBABLE

Trial of Bast Held Likely to Continue Until After Kansas City Session.

Kansas City, May 6 (A.P.).—With organization perfected and subcommittees ready to report on the first of more than 600 memorials, the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church stood adjourned for the day, while the 44 active and inactive bishops and ministers filled local and nearby pulpits.

The trial, by an ecclestiastical court of 17 ministers, of Bishop Anton Bast of Copenhagen on charges of imprudent conduct unbecoming a minister was in adjournment with indications that it may summon witnesses from Copenhagen, where the bishop became embroiled in civil difficulties in 1924 which led to his church suspension

Such action would carry the case along possibly six weeks, it was stated, bringing the court's decision past the close of the conference, May 29 This is possible under church discipline, and it was pointed out, might be strategic as predictions have been made that a report to the conference might precipitate a floor discussion.

Bishops May Lose Power.

A constitutional amendment which could strip Methodist bishops of virtually all power was in the hands of Secretary R. J. Wade today, and an early committee report was sought.

The amendment would strike from the constitution the restrictive rule which says: "The general conference shall not change nor alter any part or rule of our government so as to do away with espiscopacy, nor destroy the plan of our itinerant general superintendency (bishops)."

Adoption of this amendment is necessary before the conference can procede to limit the term of bishops or reduce their broad powers or fields of travel.

Previous attempts to reduce bishops' election from lifetime to eight years, to restrict their fields and to make possible ministerial election of district superintendents, have stumbled on this rule.

Fight in Committee Seen.

The resolution, introduced by R. Clarence Brown, lay delegate from Chicago, was expected to meet a fight in committee, as bishops long have opposed any power curtailment, and many churchmen have sought as hard to reduce episcopal powers.

Mr. Brown's resolution stated that the restrictive rules were passed by the general conference of 1808, "which had no greater authority than the present one," and that the disciples of Methodism of the present day "should have the right to determine for themselves how they wish to be governed."

Only one conference call remains until committees begin reporting, and matters which heretofore have quickly been referred to committee rooms will be brought out on the floor for debate.

Noose on Neck Keeps Endurance Flier Awake

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., April 6 (A. P.).—A noose about his neck was a safeguard installed by Lieut. Royal V. Thomas, endurance flier, to prevent him from falling asleep in his unaccompanied endurance flight last week, he told the Associated Press today.

The rope, Thomas said, was fastened at his back in the cockpit and the other end made into a noose around his neck. If overcome by sleep, he said, the noose would choke him back to wakefulness when his head fell forward. The arrangement, he added, was not needed on his last trip.

Thomas said the lessons in endurance flying learned in his last trip would be of value to him in another attempt which he plans to make within the next week or ten days.

U.S. TO HELP LEAGUE END WARS, GILCHRIST HOLDS

RETURNS TO BUSINESS

Geneva, May 6 (A.P.).—The opinion that the United States eventually will cooperate fully in the foremost purpose of the League of Nations—that of prevention of war—was expressed in a statement issued by Huntington Gilchrist, Auburn (N.Y.) and Boston, today on the occasion of his resignation as a member of the league secretariat.

Gilchrist, who is an assistant director of the mandate section, resigns after conspicuous service to pursue his business career. In his statement, which was addressed to "my American friends," Gilchrist said that during the nine years of the league's existence relationships with America had undergone almost a complete cycle from President Wilson's fight for the covenant in 1919 through the period of entire separation, or of meager contacts, which was followed by the present stage of gradually increasing cooperation. Last year American participation extended to representation at four plenary conferences and membership on almost all league commissions.

"However, with the exception of disarmament, the United States has not begun to cooperate directly in the major work of the league, which is organization of the world for peace," the statement said "If the league is ever weak in the fulfillment of this role, it will certainly be due to the fact that it is not universally supported.

"As President Wilson did in 1919. Secretary Kellogg recently voiced a deep interest by the American people in the prevention of war. I believe we will soon see the cycle completed with American cooperation in the league's prime purpose, thus strengthening the league in dealing with serious conflicts."

FASCIST CHIEF OF STAFF MAY BE ENVOY TO U. S.

Bino Grandi Is Said to Be the Probable Successor to De Martino.

LED MARCH ON ROME

Rome, May 6 (A.P.).—Many rumors of changes in the Italian diplomatic corps are current in Rome, and the Washington embassy is among those which probably will be affected very shortly. Signor Giacomo de Martino, who has been Italian Ambassador in Washington since March, 1925, has just reached his sixtieth year. He has served Italy as a diplomat for 37 years. During the whole of the great war he was director general of the ministry of foreign affairs, and before the advent of Fascism he was ambassador in London.

There are many prominent Italians who aspire to the Washington embassy, but Deputy Bino Grandi, undersecretary of foreign affairs, seems to be the most likely candidate. He is only 33 and would be the youngest ambassador in the history of united Italy were he to be elevated to the post. He comes from Bologna and is a lawyer by profession and a journalist by choice Grandi accompanied Count Volpi to Washington to effect the settlement of Italy's war debt.

Grandi is the purest expression of Fascism He was a Fascist of "the first hour." He was chief of staff of the quadriumvirate intrusted to prepare the famous march on Rome in October. 1922, which brought Mussolini to power Preceding the march to Rome, Grandi accompanied De Vecchi to Rome to inform the king of the real situation and to bring about the resignation of the cabinet to prevent civil war. Then the king consented to intrust Mussolini with the formation of a new cabinet, and he entered the Eternal City at the head of his 100,000 Black Shirts and appeared in his dusty and worn uniform on the balcony of the Quirinal Palace next to Victor Emmanuel.

Chicago, May 6 (A.P.).—William H. Harrison, assistant attorney general of Illinois, announced tonight he will oppose Oscar De Priest as an independent candidate for Congress from the First district in the race to fill the seat left vacant by the death of Martin B. Madden.

De Priest was chosen Republican candidate a few days ago by a group of ward committeemen.

Privates John Ruffner and J. Campbell, of No. 7 Engine, effected the rescue of Mrs. Coblentz and her daughter They were placed in a passing automobile immediately and taken to Sibley. four blocks away.

After the plaze had been extinguished and most of the smoke had cleared away, firemen found six canaries dead in their cages in the Coblentz apartment. Mrs. E. F. Robinson and Mrs. B. O. Butler also had canaries in their apartment, but carried them with them from the burning house

Other occupants of the house who escaped to safety were Lloyd Coblentz, son of the owner; Mrs. Charles Ross, his daughter, and Helene, her baby; E. F Robinson, F. M. Robinson, B. O. Butler, A. Archer, Mary T. Fletcher, Nora A. Bechtel and Dr. Lewis Warner.

The flames apparently started on one of the lower floors of the structure, and ate their way rapidly through the upper stories. In some sections of the building they went through to the roof before the combined work of the four alarm companies could bring them under control.

X-Ray of Skull Reveals Range of Singer's Voice

New Orleans, May 6 (A.P.).—Spotting the range of a singer's voice and its potential capabilities by an X-ray of the skull is possible, Francis Wheeler, director of music at Centenary College, Shreveport, La., told the Louisiana Music Teachers Association, in convention here.

"The interior decoration of the head has more to do with the singing voice than the larynx ever dared to have," the music director said.

The size of the sinus and the width of the antrim, or cheek bone, has everything to do with the quality and range of the voice, Mr. Wheeler said, a very long and narrow sinus being a principal reason for a soprano voice, while lower and coarser voices are caused by shorter and more blunt cavities.

Mr. Wheeler said he had found no way of measuring vocal reactions in the larynx.

NOBILE SAILS DIRIGIBLE IN SNOW TO KINGS BAY

VOYAGE TAKES 17 HOURS

Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, May 6 (A.P.). Gen. Umberto Nobile landed his dirigible Italia here at 1 p. m. today, successfully completing his flight from Vadsoe, Norway, despite extremely unfavorable weather conditions.

The journey from Vadsoe, begun at 8:31 last night, was far from a pleasant one for the crew of the big airship, for a heavy snowfall and strong contrary winds were encountered throughout the night. Gen. Nobile was advised before starting of the unfavorable conditions, but apparently decided his ship could surmount the difficulties on this leg, the same as she did on the first trip from Milan, Italy, to Stolp, Germany, when high winds seriously impeded progress. The Italia was in constant wireless communication with the steamer Citta di Milano, the ship which will serve as a base for Nobile's Arctic flights, and the Geofysiske Institute at Tromsoe, which supplied detailed weather conditions prevailing in the territory the Italia was approaching.

The Italia was sighted near South Sydkap, in southern Spitzbergen, at 7:20 a. m., and keeping outside the coast line owing to heavy fogs over the mountains made Green Harbor about noon. The strong wind, however, forced Gen Nobile to maneuve his ship for an hour before he could get her into a position for the crew of the Citta di Milano to attach her to the mooring mast. The dirigible was forced to remain at the mast for hours because the high wind made it impossible to transfer her to the hangar.

Gen. Nobile plans several flights during the next two months exploring parts of the Arctic regions hitherto unvisited or about which there is controversy. He also plans to revisit the North Pole which he first flew over in the dirigible Norge last summer.

Lehman, Novelist, Sues for Divorce

Oakland, Calif., May 6 (A.P.).—Dr. Benjamin Harrison Lehman, novelist and associate professor of English at the University of California, has filed suit for divorce against Mrs. Gladys Collins Lehman, said by friends to be a scenario writer in Hollywood.

Dr. Lehman's first novel, "Wild Marriage," attracted attention about a year ago because of "advanced" opinions expressed. He told friends Mrs. Lehman went to Hollywood about the time the book was completed, and added that they had agreed to a "trial separation." The divorce complaint charged desertion.

FAITH IN GOD SUSTAINED FLIERS, DECLARES BARON

Von Huenefeld Praises Junkers, in Address at Lutheran Church Services.

CREW SEES BALL GAME

New York, May 6 (A.P.).—Their deep-rooted belief in God sustained the fliers of the transatlantic plane Bremen when they were lost in the fog banks over Newfoundland, Baron Gunther von Huenefeld told the congregation of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church today.

The baron, accompanied by Mrs. Herman Koehl, wife of the German pilot of the Bremen, attended services at the Lutheran Church, while Capt. Hermann Koehl and Maj. James C. Fitzmaurice attended mass in St. Henry's Chapel of St. Agnes Roman Catholic Church.

Baron von Huenfeld, addressing the congregation at the close of the service, paid tribute to the genius of Prof. Hugo Junkers, designer of the plane, for the human element in the success of the flight.

In the afternoon the fliers attended a ball game between the New York Yankees and the Chicago White Sox. The 60,000 spectators at the stadium cheered wildly when the fliers entered and again when Maj. Fitzmaurice tossed out the first ball of the game.

The Bremen's crew later were guests at a reception at the German Club. The wives of Capt. Koehl and Maj. Fitzmaurice and Miss Herta Junkers accompanied them.

Seven cities in the United States and two in Canada are included in a schedule of visits to be made by the crew of the transatlantic plane Bremen in a two weeks' air tour, representatives of the fliers announced here today.

The schedule, with approximate time of departure and arrival Eastern standard time, follows:

Leave Curtiss Field 9 a. m. Wednesday, arrive Philadelphia 10:15 a. m.; leave Philadelphia 9:45 a. m. Thursday, arrive Cleveland 12:45 p. m.; leave Cleveland 1:45 p. m same day, arrive Chicago 5:30 p. m.; leave Chicago Sunday at 1 p. m., arrive Milwaukee 2 p. m.; leave Milwaukee at noon Monday, May 14, arrive St. Louis 4 p. m.; leave St. Louis May 16, 11 a. m., arrive Detroit 3:30 p. m.; leave Detroit May 18 at 10:30 a. m., arrive Boston 6 p. m.; leave Boston May 21 at 10 a. m., arrive Montreal 2 p. m.; leave Montreal May 22 at 11 a. m., arrive Quebec 2:30 p. m.; leave Quebec May 23 at 11 a. m. for New York.

War-Debt Statement Denied by Clemenceau

Paris, May 6 (A.P.).—Georges Clemenceau today issued an open letter to the weekly periodical Candide, which last Thursday quoted him as saying that France never would pay its debt to the United States because it is impossible, denying have made any such statement.

"An unknown person came to my door and asked me questions," the letter said. "But on all these points and many others it is my pleasure to keep silent. x x x Must I refuse my door to all visitors or am I condemned to see my thoughts disfigured by people who force their way into my home in order to interpret fragments of phrases in a sentence favorable to their designs?"

200,000 PEASANTS DEMAND ROUMANIAN PREMIER RESIGN

Maniu exclaimed "look at that mass of humanity. It could be paralleled only in liberty-loving America. It is not a mob, it is an orderly, peaceful assemblage. We are neither revolutionists nor bolshevists. We want an honest government.

"Dropping their plows and shovels these legions of peasants and toilers have tramped hundreds of wearisome miles in order to join the universal demand for the overthrow of the present government. They will return to their homes as peacefully as they came. The government will do justice and give us a chance to govern the country.

"If all peaceful means to dislodge the government fail, we shall be forced to adopt active resistance toward the government. There is at present no intention of disturbing either the dynasty or the regency, but our patience with the latter can not endure forever. They must give consideration to the legitimate aspirations of our people."

Hills Are Thronged.

When daylight broke this morning upon the Transylvanian city, famous alike as the seat of Hungarian and Roumanian independence, it revealed tens of thousands of white clad peasant men and women, scattered like sleeping ghosts all over the streets and parks of the city. For Alba Julia is a small town, accustomed to provide accommodations for only a handful of traveling salesmen at a time.

Although it had rained heavily, most of the peasants were fast asleep in the open with no covering except their light homespun garments. Others were clustered, shivering around camp fires, warming their hands or cooking a breakfast of mamiliga, a kind of Indian corn mush which is their national dish.

City Is Festooned.

The city was festooned with flags, banners, evergreens and photographs of Maniu, with which were intermingled those of the boy king, Michael, and Queen Marie. The latter is still enormously popular among the peasantry, who affectionately call her their mother. Nowhere was there any apparent sentiment for the exiled Prince Carol, father of the boy king.

Every road leading into Alba Julia is impassable with humanity. The scene resembles a gigantic county fair in the United States.

After trudging barefooted for hundreds of miles over mud-covered roads with their beds, food and cooking utensils on their backs, thousands of peasants found they could not get near the public square when Maniu addressed them. The authorities showed great tolerance, making no attempt to molest the peasants. To frustrate any attempt at open revolution, the government had deployed 10,000 troops at strategic points outside the city with machine guns and airplanes.

Prince Carol "Ready."

Godstone, England, May 6 (A.P.).—While 200,000 peasants today met in Alba Julia todemand a party change in the government of Roumania, the exiled father of their king, Prince Carol, awaited news of their action with friends in this Surrey village. He is visiting at Oakhurst, the estate of his countryman Jonescu.

"I am awaiting and if Roumania calls, as I think she may, I will answer," Prince Carol told a representative of the Associated Press today. Speaking fluent English, he went on: "Nnhappily the situation in my country is not very good. Changes may come, but what those changes will be I can not say. They will appear later. I do want to be clearly understood that I am not making a bid for the throne of Roumania. Some people appear to think I am trying to kick my son off the throne. That is wrong. But if the call should come, I am ready to go."

"You must clearly understand," he said, "that I do not meddle in the interior politics of my country. I am not identified with any party or any politicians in Roumania. I hold myself above party and am concerned only with the welfare of my country."

To add to the general feeling here that Carol really anticipates that a call may be made on him, is the report that a fast automobile is kept in waiting to take him to Croydon at any time of day or night. From Croydon he could fly to Paris, where his own plane is at Le Bourget, in a few hours.

Prince Carol Is Declared Figure in Dynastic Coup

London, May 6 (A.P.).—The London Express says it has learned that Prince Carol, now visiting in Surrey, is the central figure in an astounding plot to overthrow the Roumanian government and seize the throne of his young son, King Michael.

The newspaper, which devotes several columns to the story, says that British airplanes had been chartered to carry thousands of manifestos and scatter them over Roumania, but that the British government learned of the plot and forbade their leaving Croydon.

The newspaper says that Carol had expected to make an open declaration of his claim to the throne on Monday and to announce his intention of having Michael abdicate in his favor. He then planned that Michael should enter an English school as the first step to equip him to reign eventually as a democratic monarch.

U. S. JUDGE ARRESTS 7 IN ATTACK ON FAMILY

Federal Warrants Follow the Failure of Kentucky Officials to Act.

TWO ESCAPE UNDER FIRE

Shepherdsville, Ky., May 6 (A.P.).—Seven men were arrested today on Federal warrants in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Kate Browning, 60, and the wounding of her sister and four children when the Browning home in the Brownington settlement near here was burned and the family fired on from ambush as they emerged from the blazing building

Two men, Arthur and Sylvia Hodge, for whom warrants had been issued, escaped after an exchange of gunfire with Federal officers. Neither of the men was believed wounded.

Those arrested were Walter Crenshaw, Elmer Crenshaw, Clarence Crenshaw, father of Walter and Elmer; John Bolton, a justice of the peace; Frank Kinder, Frank Hodge and James Harris.

Nine Federal warrants, charging conspiracy to intimidate a Federal witness and obstruct justice, were issued today by United States Commissioner Osso W Stanley, of Bardstown, Ky., based, the Commissioner Stanley said.

Federal agents were sent into the region "because of the delay of the civil authorities of Bullitt County in acting," Commissioner Stanley said. Members of the Browning family, taken to Bardstown Saturday night for protection, were escorted to their homes today by officers.

Shortly after midnight Friday night, members of the family were awakened and found their home in flames Seeking to escape, they found the doors fastened from the outside, they said, and were forced to break through with an ax. Ben Browning, 18, the first to climb through the hole cut in the door, was seriously wounded, but made his way 5 miles to the home of relatives.

The other members of the family, Mrs. Lou Browning, her two daughters, Angie, 16, and Mrs. Amanda Jones, 26, and another son, Peachie, 23, all were wounded as they made their way from the building

The attack was believed by officers to have been provoked when the four women provided Federal officers with information which resulted in the capture of a large still and the arrest of Elmer Crenshaw. Both Elmer Crenshaw and Clarence Crenshaw, his father, had been arrested previously on charges of violating the prohibition law.

Federal officers assigned to make the arrests today were accompanied by Sheriff W F. Monroe, of Bullitt County

Fort Pierce, Fla., May 6 (A.P.).—One man was killed and more than a score of other guests escaped in their night clothing when flames razed the Colonial Hotel here at 4 o'clock this morning.

S. Hildebrandt, of Miami, traveling salesman, lost his life when he jumped from the second story of the hotel The fire, believed to have been started by the explosion of a water heater, caused damage estimated at $85,000. Hildebrandt was trapped on the second floor.

Heading a score of Boy Scouts yesterday morning, the youth's brother-in-law, Morris Skinker, of 5330 Colorado avenue northwest, began a search of Blagden's woods, which are on the rim of Rock Creek Park. The youth, police were told, had often gone walking in the woods.

The search had progressed not more than an hour, when George Krimkau 15 years old, of 1353 Otis place northwest, member of the searching party discovered the body.

Neil Campbell identified the body as that of his brother by the clothing The body was badly decomposed, police said. Taken to the District Morgue, a bank book issued to Campbell was found in one of his pockets.

Campbell was completing his third year of study in the college of arts and science at the university, and prior to his entrance there, he attended local public high and elementary schools He is survived by his father and mother. CHINESE OUTRAGES ARE UP TO JAPANESE race hatred overboiling, in anticipation of which Japanese naval forces are being distributed through Chinese waters.

While the Japanese garrison in Tsinan has now been reinforced to a total of more than 4,000 men, reports that the Nationalists have cut the Shantung Railway connecting the city with the coast will make it difficult for the additional 2,700 troops now steaming from Manchuria to Tsingtao to reach Tsinan.

The Japanese in Tsinan are reported still in a state of siege, although quiet for the moment, with foodstuffs running low and electric and other public services not functioning.

The official Chinese feeling in Peking is divided between relief at the setback of the Nationalists and anxiety lest Japan seize the occasion to resume military and economic domination of the province of Shantung.

Anti-Chinese Feeling Aroused in Mexico

El Paso, Tex., May 6 (A.P.).—Dispatches from Mexico City to El Continental state that anti-Chinese sentiment on the West Coast is increasing, as evidenced by the fact that a bill has just been introduced in the Sonora state legislature asking that the national congress and the president take steps to end the Mexico-China treaty.

This is believed due to the evergrowing influx of Orientals to the western states of Mexico.

MUSSOLINI SARCASTIC ANSWERING CRITICISMS

Does Not Allude to Pope, but Praises Girls Whom Pontiff Reprimanded.

SEES NEW ECONOMIC ERA

Rome, May 6 (A.P.).—The present century will see a new form of economy—cooperative—as the nineteenth century experienced capitalistic economy, Premier Mussolini asserted today at the opening of the third convention of the National Confederation of Fascist Syndicates.

Applauded to the echo, Il Duce reviewed the long Fascist struggle. While he did not allude to the recent papal disapprobation of some of Fascism's methods, Mussolini made several sarcastic remarks concerning his critics in general which provoked laughter.

All of Fascism's efforts, he said, have been devoted to one common ideal—bettering the Italian people morally and materially.

Mussolini got another laugh when he ridiculed universal suffrage under which, he said, the laboring masses have been called on from time to time to "put this famous piece of paper in the ballot box in order to demonstrate by this solemn and most documentary constitutional falsehood that the people are supreme."

Later in the day Mussolini made a second speech in the National Stadium at the ceremony connected with the distribution of prizes to girl athletes and their organizations.

"Young Italians," he said, "you have offered Rome an incomparable spectacle of grace, force and discipline. Rome has admired you, the fatherland is proud of you. Raise your voices, life your pennants and salute Rome, Italy and Fascism."

The 3,000 girls responded with the war cry "Alala."

Porto Alegre, Brazil, May 6 (A.P.).—The chief of customs here yesterday said that 50,000 cattle had been carried across the border into Uruguay and there sold by the rustlers. He urged more general branding of stock to increase the difficulties of the rustlers.

Special Days.

"I AM in trouble again," writes a young girl. "You have helped me out before and I guess you can this time. It is over Mother's day. Sister and I work for a living and that means we have to watch our pennies. But it isn't dollars which worry us now.

"Last year Sis and I bought mother a five dollar bunch of flowers. Naturally she was pleased but spoiled it by saying, 'How foolish of you to buy a lot of flowers for me when I know you can not afford it.'

"Now if we don't buy her something this coming Mother's day she will be disappointed. But never mind that. We are going to buy her something anyway.

"What we would like to do, and some other girls and boys in the office too, is to think of our mothers oftener and bring her flowers, candy, a book, a pair of silk stockings, some dress ornament, or something of that sort quite regardless of any special second Sunday in May. In other words we would like to give her bouquets while living instead of wreaths after she is dead. Yet if we did things this way mother would say, 'Well Alice Brown gave her mother a lovely 5-pound box of candy on Mother's day and I didn't get anything but a pair of stockings.' And if our mother died (God forbid) and we did not give a wreath to 'our loving mother,' even if we had given her violets, roses and pinks every week for 40 years, the neighbors would think we were hard boiled and we'd never hear the last of it.

"Shall we spend our money on her when she is living or shall we wait until she is dead? Shall we blow ourselves only on Mother's day for the sake of appearances or spread ourselves every day?" NORAH.

Special days, my young friends, are meant merely to call attention to an idea which, in many instances, should run throughout the year. A son or daughter who has never given mother a flower and then makes a grand showing of a wreath "To Our Darling Mother" at her funeral ought to have a queer feeling added to her sorrow. On the other hand, if the children gave mother a bouquet at Easter, St. Patrick's day, Fourth of July, Mother's day, Christmas, Valentine's day, &c., they would for appearance's sake have to buy a wreath for her funeral just to please the neighbors.

Mother will expect something special on Mother's day because, if for no other reason, she would feel terribly if she had to answer "nothing," when the neighbors ask, "And what did your children give you on Mother's day?" But remember her throughout the year with little gifts of courtesy, consideration and thoughtfulness.

Motor or Cellar Explosions.

I like to experiment with chemistry and try out little inventions of my own, but my parents are afraid I will burn the house down, and the smel' I make are said by them to be poisonous. What's the remedy? EXPERIMENTING.

Answer: I have some fear for boys who experiment in chemistry outside the school chemical laboratory because chemicals have a way of acting very strangely and quickly if not arranged in certain scientific order and if not handled with certain precautions. I do not want to see you lose your eyesight or blow father through the roof.

But on the other hand, as you said, "I have five fingers on each hand and I think I can kep them if I use precaution." After all the explosions in a gasoline motor have done more damage to youth than chemicals in a boy's basement laboratory. Get your teacher's approval on the chemicals you experiment with to be sure your are safe

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES M'DONALD

A Husband's Problem.

DEAR MISS M'DONALD: If you can help me to a fair decision I will be grateful to you all my life, no matter which way you decide.

My wife and I have loved each other devotedly since childhood. We married six years ago, neither of us ever having given any other person a thought. For my part, there could not be any other woman than my wife. But it seems to have proved different for her.

My business takes me from home frequently, and last year I was away for six weeks at a stretch four times. Now my wife has confessed to me that during these absences she was untrue to me, having an affair with an individual supposed to be a friend of mine. She says it went no farther than lovemaking which I can believe or not, of course. However, she confessed voluntarily, as nothing in this world could be further from my thought. I asked her why she decided to tell me, and she replied that when she saw me again she just hated herself and the man, and had to tell me

He has taken himself off, and it's a good thing. I've befriended him for years, gone the limit for him—and this is his answer. As for her, I do not know how I feel. I can't take it in. She is reserved, not the least "modern," the sort a man would feel able to trust. I don't feel I can forgive her or trust her again But I do not know anything about such things. The thought of bringing any disgrace to her is impossible, yet the thought of having such a wife just eats me through and through.

What am I supposed to do? What can a man do when his whole faith is thrown in his face? I have given her everything a woman could ask. She has a car, lovely friends, her own allowance which I never question. Is there any excuse for her behavior? DAN B. C.

Dan, let's not talk about "excuses" for behavior, there are so many and of such varied kinds. So let's just talk of you. You want to know whether or not you can forgive this thing that is now past. And that depends upon the plane on which you dwell. Where are you, Dan? Pretty well up, or pretty low down? You see, dear boy, the way we see things depends so much upon where we stand. Our angle of vision in other words. Things get so distorted when viewed side wise, you know. So let's get a straight view, a clear perspective on humanity and human flexibility. And then let's get a spot trained on you.

Six years ago you undertook the care of a girl. Not just her physical care, with a car and a house, and a check book. But her spiritual care, her happiness. Now after six years she needs your protection for the first time. She has come to you and asked for it. Now if there is anything that you can do other than give it, I am sure I can not see it, seeing you as I do. I believe you will understand just what happened when loneliness and boredom got a hold on your wife's equilibrum, and made way for the poor weakling who babbled soft words in your absence. And I believe you can not only believe but understand how she really did hate herself when she saw you again, and how too the other man suffered by comparison. Get a clean view, Dan. Don't insult your wife and yourself with suspicions. She need not have told you anything. She has told you all, and its only the story of a lot of lonely days and evenings that culminated in a very comprehensible situation.

Are you big enough to meet it? Are you man enough to take care of a girl? Are you on a plane where you can see human experiences as they really are?

That's the answer, Dan. We are all here. Some of us closer to each other than to the rest, able to hurt each other more, or help each other more. It's up to us to shove or to guide. Which do you feel that you prefer to do?

Mr. Work's Pointer On Auction Bridge

Two weeks ago we opened the subject of original suit-bids and so far have covered bidding suits of five cards or more, and have noted the difference between the requirements of No Trumpers and suit-bids. One requirement of the latter was two quick tricks.

Added length in the suit to be bid does not compensate for the absence of one of the quick tricks. It may seem strange to the beginner that one club may be bid on Ace-King-x-x-x but not on Ace-Queen-x-x-x-x-x; and such a rule would be strange beyond explaining if nothing but a Club contract were under contemplation; certainly seven trumps headed by Ace-Queen will yield more tricks than five headed by Ace-King. But an original suit-bid of one always contemplates a possible No Trump take-out by partner, and a partner who went to No Trump relying upon a strong Club suit and a minimum of two quick tricks in his Dummy, might find himself in serious difficulty when Dummy showed up with only one quick trick. The long suit which looked so good as prospective trumps might never be established and brought in at No Trump.

Experts have wobbled a bit over classifying Ace-Queen-Jack-x-x. That combination will not assure winning the first and second round of the suit, as Ace-King would, and therefore can not be rated technically as two quick tricks; but as Ace-Queen-Jack will surely win at least the first and third rounds, and may win three tricks, it usually is counted as equal to Ace-King. The fashion now is to bid one of a suit initially on Ace-Queen-Jack-x-x, the same as on Ace-King-x-x-x.

Considerable space has been devoted to discussing hands whose entire strength lay in one suit, because we were discussing minimum strength. The reader must not suppose that having only one quick trick in the suit named bars the bid, if at least one more quick trick be found elsewhere in the hand; much less is it a detriment to have extra quick tricks, or additional strength of any kind, or more than five cards in the suit.

This subject will be continued next Monday.

Titles and Letters Pour in For Guest $1,000 Prize Test

Rules of the Contest

1. The contest opens May 1 and closes at midnight, May 15, 1928.
2. The object is to suggest a title for a new book of verse by Edgar A. Guest. This title must be of four words, or less. It must be accompanied by a letter of 50 words or less, setting forth your reasons for suggesting the title.
3. You may send in any number of titles, but each one must be on separate coupon or separate sheet of paper, signed, dated and addressed to the Edgar A. Guest Title Contest Editor The Post. Each must be accompanied by a letter.
4. Should two or more persons suggest the title judged best, and their letters be judged of equal merit each will be awarded the full amount of the prize offered.
5. Each contestant agrees to abide by the final decision of the national judges, of whom there shall be three in number.

The titles continue to pour in for the Edgar A. Guest $1,000 Prize Title Contest conducted by The Post and other newspapers throughout the country. Hundreds of contestants have submitted their suggestions to The Post, and the contest editor is confronted wth a huge pile of mail daily.

Contestants generally are carefully complying with the rules of the contest, but in some few instances the suggestions have not been submitted in proper form. Each suggested title must be accompanied by a letter of not more than 50 words seting forth the reasons why the suggested title is particularly appropriate. Without this letter no title will be considered. Be sure your entry complies with the rules.

In addition to the $1,000 national prize which will be awarded to the contestant whose title will be selected for the book of verse to be published on the forty-seventh birthday of the poet, August 20, prizes will be awarded to five entrants in The Post local contest. The first prize will be $10 in cash, the second four volumes of Guest verse bound in red morocco, and the third, fourth and fifth individual volumes of Guest poetry all autographed by the author. While a suggested title may fail to win a prize in the local contest it will still have its chance in the national competition.

Titles should be short and to the point and should be typical of Guest's work. They should carry a suggestion of the good things of life, of sincerity, and of normal human beings who enjoy one another's company. Guest has been called the "poet of the good green earth." The title for the new book should reflect this idea.

You may submit as many title suggestions as you choose. Each must be accompanied by a letter of 50 words or less setting forth your reasons for its selection.

REWARD.

Down the months I've walked with care
  Facing rain and snow and sleet.
Life has led me here and there
  To the bitter and the sweet;
Week by week and day by day
  I've encountered joy and pain.
Now life whispers that I may
  Go and fish a stream again.

Life the teacher, stern and true,
  Holds me fast to book and rule,
Gives me problems I must do,
  Sometimes keeps me after school,
Sometimes takes my sweets away,
  Sometimes punishes with pain.
Now life whispers that I may
  Go and fish a stream again.

Life has prizes to bestow,
  One by one as time flies on;
Every little joy we know
  Pays us for a care that's gone.
Now has come the month of May;
  Done is winter's cruel reign,
And life tells me that I may
  Go and fish a stream again!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

INSANITY AND SUICIDE.

THE question is often raised as to whether insanity is the outstanding cause of suicide. It is sometimes said that insanity is the only cause of suicide; that, while the person may not have been insane before that, an acute developed attack of insanity drove him to commit the act.

Neither of these urges finds acceptance among the specialists in the workings of deranged minds. They find that definitely insane persons have but little tendency to suicide. In certain types of insanity this urge does not operate at all. On the other hand, the evidence in many cases of suicide indicates that the mind of the person concerned was operating unusually clearly just preceding the commission of the act.

Dr. F. L. Hoffman consulting statistician for the Prudential Life Insurance Co., has recently published a study of the suicide rate of persons in different occupations. This study shows that occupation, or something connected with it, is a factor. The occupation having the lowest rate was locomotive engineers and firemen, and that having the highest was hotelkeepers and saloonkeepers. Saloonkeepers had a rate which was more than eleven times that of locomotive engineers.

It is impossible to escape the conclusion that occupation must contribute to a disparity that is so striking. The occupations having the low rates, in the Hoffman study, were: Enginemen, other trainmen, clergymen, insurance officials and clerks, teachers, iron and steel workers and printers. At the other end of the line were: hotelkeepers, saloonkeepers, bartenders, chemists, druggists, lawyers, doctors, insurance agents, shopkeepers and unskilled workers. Some twenty or more occupations came in between.

The drawback to American acceptance of Dr. Hoffman's figures is that they are based solely on British reports, and they are about eighteen years old. For instance, a hotelkeeper in Great Britain is much more of a saloonkeeper than is a hotelkeeper here.

Dr. Hoffman has some other conclusions as to factors in suicide, which conclusions are not based solely on British conditions. Among them are that men who work outside are less liable to suicide than are inside workers; physical or manual labor makes against suicide. Freedom from economic uncertainty is a restraining influence with preachers and teachers. Religious influence and teaching are restraining.

The suicide rate in the Army is very high. In 1925 the rate in the Army led all other causes of death. Among white enlisted men it led drowning, airplane accidents, automobile accidents, pneumonia and all other diseases. Among officers it was led by airplane accidents, but it led diseases and other accidents. Bankers and bank helpers have a high rate because they have many temptations, and punishment for transgression is certain. All in all, the curves which Hoffman has worked out prove that insanity is not the principal cause of suicide.

BEAUTY AND YOU

By VIOLA PARIS

DEAR Viola Paris: I do not know what to do about my hair. It is so dry that within a few days after a shampoo, a great amount of dandruff appears. I am a blonde. I wash my hair once a week (my hair is bobbed), but the dandruff seems to be getting worse instead of better. I shall be most grateful for advice that will help me. GWEN.

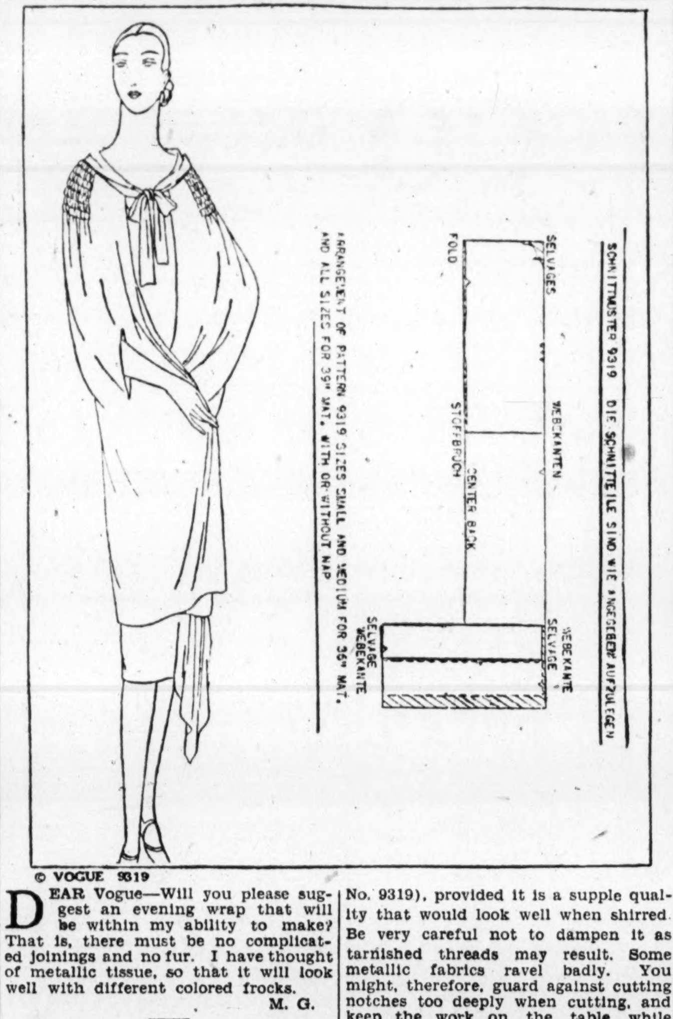
This reader is making the mistake that far too many women make. She is applying as a cure what very obviously is the chief cause of her trouble. The first and best advice is that she stop washing her hair so frequently. She is of the blond type and should be extremely careful in the use of soap and water on her scalp.

Women with dry scalps are frequently embarrassed by the appearance of dandruff. For these women, a painstaking shampoo twice a month is enough. A thoroughgoing massage, every day, should be substituted for frequent shampoos. The tips of the fingers are the best for the massage, though a good, stiff brushing is helpful. Whether they do it with fingers or brush, people with dry scalps should make the massage a daily habit; and it is really astonishing how quickly this good habit may be formed.

I recommend a hot oil treatment for the scalp just before the twice-a-month shampoo. This takes a little time, but it is not a difficult treatment, even when you give it to yourself. The hair should first be parted in the center, then into separate strands, with not more than one inch to each strand. Warm mineral oil should then be applied to each part with a very soft brush or a piece of absorbent cotton. The oil should be well warmed, but not hot enough to be uncomfortable. After the oil has been well applied, a towel should be wrung out in hot water and wrapped about the head. When the first towel has cooled, the application of a hot towel is repeated three or four times. Next comes the shampoo, with a thorough rinsing in several waters. A good rinse to keep the hair light can be made of one teaspoonful of salts of tartar, two teaspoonfuls of strained lemon-juice and three pints of water.

The use of tar soaps, oily tonics and sage tea should be avoided, since these tend to darken the hair. Once in six or eight weeks, a small piece of washing soda, about the size of a bean, may be dissolved in a cupful of liquid castile soap and used with the shampoo. The soda tends to keep the hair light and fluffy, but should not be used too often.

An Ideal Evening Wrap



© VOGUE 9319

DEAR Vogue—Will you please suggest an evening wrap that will be within my ability to make? That is, there must be no complicated joinings and no fur. I have thought of metallic tissue, so that it will look well with different colored frocks. M. G.

Dear M. G.—A glance at the diagram will show you how easy this cape is to make. It is important to study just how the girl sketched is wearing the wrap, for it would spoil the effect to draw up the collar too closely. At the back, the scarf is held in with a little loop of the fabric, a touch of decided distinction.

Metallic tissue would be a good choice for the cape (Vogue Pattern No. 9319), provided it is a supple quality that would look well when shirred. Be very careful not to dampen it as tarnished threads may result. Some metallic fabrics ravel badly. You might, therefore, guard against cutting notches too deeply when cutting, and keep the work on the table while basting. Seams should be stitched with care so as not to pucker the goods. They should be opened and pressed flat before shirring is begun, so that there is no break in the gathering at the seams. The openings for the arms may be omitted if you prefer. Chiffon would be a correct choice for the lining, gold color for gold tissue, silver gray for silver.

Conduct and Common Sense

By ANNE SINGLETON

HINTS FOR THE HOUSEHOLD

IN talking over some of the small trials of daily life with a friend the other day (I don't know why I should hide his identity—it was my brother-in-law), he spoke of a tiresome habit, sacred to neither sex, but I'm afraid usually practiced by mine, of reciting all the little woes of the day when it is too late for anything to be done about them. It is a self-indulgent habit, of course, and one I'm devoted to; but I could see why he recommended reticence and self-control and I'm handing on his advice because I think it has sound common sense back of it.

This is an example of what he means You imagine a man and woman sitting down to the evening meal. The man is possibly facing some serious problem involving the family's future, or he is just tired and wants to be cheered up. Perhaps his wife does, too, but this is how she converses.

"Now, do you want to know what's happened today? The children were late for school because Harvey Jenks, from next door, never stopped for them. He is the most forgetful boy; they ought to do something about his memory! I could have had the car for them, of course, but Mrs. Jenks said Harvey would stop, and living next door you'd think it would all work out so nicely! Isn't it enough to provoke you when things like that happen? And then the iceman never came, and I had to send after ice. And the coal we ordered was full of waste. Mary says we shall never get our money's worth out of it. She can hardly keep a fire going. And it makes such clinkers! I never thought much of Kendle's coal anyhow, but you thought we ought to patronize him. Well, now we know! Then I went out to pay visits this afternoon, and I never thought of taking an umbrella, and, as you may imagine, I was soaked to the skin. Ruined my hat, I expect. And didn't find your sister at home after all. You'd have thought she would be a day like this, but somehow she never is when I go there. That's how my day went. What was yours like?"

My brother-in-law's contention is that all such complaining monologues are bad. If the person complained to were expected to take any action on any of the matters mentioned, some good might come out of it. As it is, nothing he could do, then, would help, but he feels to blame for the bad coal and the ruined hat and his sister's being from home. Whatever he had to say, solemn or frivolous, seems to have been submerged under the flood of his wife's lamentations. Good comradeship might be all the better if only the small mishaps that could be remedied were shared.

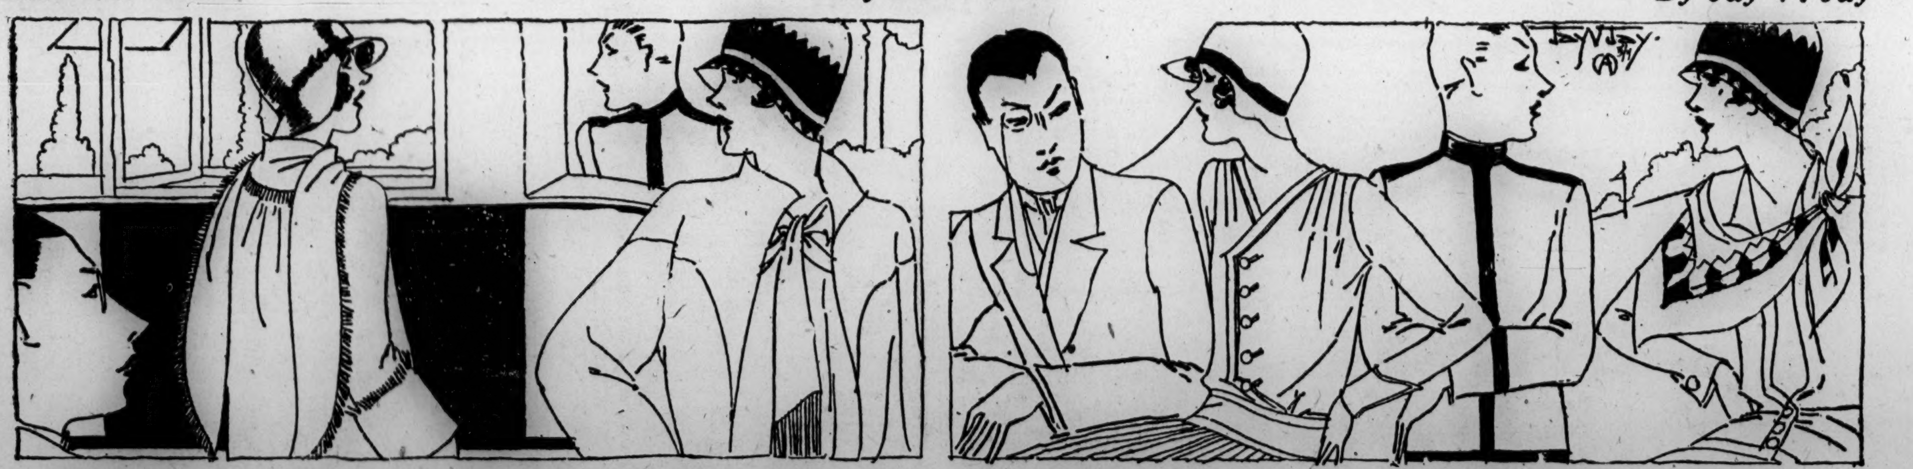
MODISH MITZI

They Don't Click

By Jay V. Jay



It doesn't look so promising for the plan Mitzi and the Goofer worked up—neither Marie nor the young man seems especially impressed. Anything to stop Marie from putting her heart's interest on the task of getting the Goofer and Mitzi to fall ecstatically into each other's arms! A little destiny around the house is too much. That's why Marie is going to the country club in her new coat of basket weave with its fringed scarf and cuffs. That's why Mitzi is going to the country club in her coat with the new yoke and her hat trimmed with applique. Marie's hat is a felt with a rippling brim—wider than most brims have been for a while back. Marie's temper is almost sulky.

There was no use trying to pair them off. Marie will hang upon the Goofer's every word, and the Goofer's nephew will gaze adoringly at Mitzi. Their interest in each other is practically zero. Marie is hoping that the Goofer admires her new dress of crepe—he ought to because it has buttons down the front, tucks on the shoulders, pleats in the skirt and pointed cuffs on the sleeves. Mitzi's dress is smart, but why mention her dress when she is wearing a Rodier printed scarf knotted on one shoulder—a style that appears in gowns for every occasion from breakfast until bedtime. It's awfully hard, thinks Mitzi, to force Marie into a new interest in life and boys are difficult! Tomorrow—Everything for Evening.

When you visit New York

Recall the contents of this letter before telling the taxi man where to take you

One of our guests writes:

$3 to $6 for one
$6 to $9 for two

"It seems ungracious to close a five months' residence at The Shelton without expressing to you my appreciation of the very remarkable and beautiful thing you have done in creating such a center.

"The great beauty of the hotel, the reserve and cultured taste in its furnishings and decoration, the refinement of atmosphere, apparent in the character of the guests and the tone of the management, are not only rare for any place, but especially noteworthy in the heart of New York, which is so often blatant with different standards.

"I consider it a privilege to have lived there, and to have made it known to many friends who share my enthusiasm. We are all indebted to you."

—an unsolicited and unpaid-for letter expressing exactly the way we wish to have Shelton guests feel. You will enjoy The Shelton whether your stay is five months or but a single day. It is different.

Summer Round-trip Fare From Washington to San Francisco $130.45

San Francisco's hills and picturesque skyline thrill every traveler on the approaching ferry-boat.

Gateway to the REAL West

San Francisco

America's coolest summer city

Polo may be witnessed the year around.

Some one will say to you this Autumn: "My family and I have just returned from a remarkable vacation. We have been getting acquainted with our own country. And we have had more real fun than ever came to us before in a single summer.

"We took advantage of low summer railroad fares and bought tickets direct to San Francisco. We arranged to go West by one route and return by another. It cost little or nothing extra.

"San Francisco is the gateway to the whole western vacationland. This city is at the center of our Pacific coastline, linked by fine highways, river steamers and scenic rail lines to the most satisfying outdoor country we've ever found. Why, in a couple of hours you can lose yourself in vast redwood groves, old as Egypt. Right across the Golden Gate you can climb a high mountain by motor or rail. Yosemite Valley, Lake Tahoe, ocean beaches, the Monterey Bay region, and a hundred radiant orchard valleys, all tied together by good roads, are within easy reach. Good accommodations everywhere, at any price.

"But it was cosmopolitan San Francisco that held us spellbound. A hundred years ago a Spanish village. Eighty years ago, a roaring camp of the gold rush. And today—

"Why, today, just to stand on the forward deck of a ferry-boat, as it nears that sparkling city, is enough to make you rub your eyes. It's a vision!—towering structures climbing up and down purple hills; globe-girdling steamships and battleships in the foreground, mountains all around; and at one side the Golden Gate opening out to sea. The moment you step from the ferry-boat, you're a San Franciscan. No wonder the authors and painters rave about San Francisco. I can't talk their language, but I have roamed their Latin Quarter and Chinatown, visited their wharves and cafes, climbed their Telegraph Hill, and caught their thrill.

"Every day of our summer trip was adventure in American geography, a dip into western history, and already we're talking of going again. It may be by Panama steamship next time, or over the Victory Highway by motor. Think of it, the coolest summer city in America, where everybody goes in for outdoor play—golf, tennis, polo, hiking or whatever he likes—and yet rolls up the biggest per capita wealth in the country while doing it."

Autoist Breaks Neck When Car Plunges

Luray, Va., May 6.—Arthur Judd, about 30 years old, broke his neck and was killed when the car in which he and his brother were returning from a visit to their mother 3 miles east of Luray, at 2 o'clock this morning, skidded on slippery Millers Hill and went over the bank just north of Luray.

His brother escaped with minor bruises. The dead man was a son of the late David Judd and leave a wife and one child.

POLITICAL LEGISLATION.

During the current week it is probable that the fate of the politically important legislation of this session of Congress will be determined. Flood control, farm relief, tax reduction and the Boulder Dam bill will make progress toward enactment or failure. The tug of war is at hand.

President Coolidge will confer with the conferees on the flood control bill today. They have no concessions to suggest, but are ready to listen to his suggestions. It is reported that Mr. Coolidge is still hopeful of inducing Congress to increase the proportionate liability of the flood States for the cost of protective works. Senate and House spokesmen, however, assert that nothing further in that direction can be accomplished. The conferees have little leeway in this respect, as the Senate and House bills do not differ much, and it is beyond the privilege of the conference committee to inject new provisions, although there are many precedents for the vicious practice of legislating by conference.

Representatives of the corn belt have appealed to President Coolidge to shut his eyes and swallow the equalization fee provision in the McNary-Haugen bill. They have presented no new argument, and there is no reason to suppose that the President will reverse his position on that question. On the contrary, although the bill provides that its other sections shall be effective even if the equalization fee clauses are found to be unconstitutional, it is not to the taste of Mr. Coolidge to approve of legislation that he believes to be unconstitutional. The veto of the bill is almost a certainty.

A lively fight is promised on tax reduction. If the McNary-Haugen bill should be vetoed before the tax debate has been closed, it may be the Democrats, who are insisting upon a big reduction, will have a better argument than at present, for they can show that the Treasury is no longer in danger of a draft for $400,000,000 for farm relief and that no deficit would follow if taxes should be reduced by $325,000,000 or so.

The prospect of passing the Boulder Dam bill through both houses and having it signed by the President is believed to be very good by its advocates. But the opposition does not concede that the bill can pass either house. The breaking of dams recently has not helped the Boulder Dam bill, especially in the face of the statement issued by the American Society of Civil Engineers, questioning the feasibility of Boulder Dam and recommending that further investigation be made before committing the Government to the construction of a dam higher than the Washington Monument.

SHAKESPEARE AND SOUTHWARK.

When one considers the many celebrations that took place in England this year in honor of Shakespeare's birthday, that which stands out most prominently of all is, perhaps, the Southwark Shakespeare Festival. This is an annual event intended to keep alive in the minds of the inhabitants of the borough, and to impress upon the minds of outsiders, the intimate association that the great dramatist had with Southwark for many years. One has only to recall that the places of the greatest historic interest in Southwark are still the sites of its early theaters, in which Shakespeare practiced his profession of actor and on the stages of which his plays were first produced, to realize how close was the connection. If to this reflection is added the consideration that it was probably in Southwark that the poet lived during the period in which he produced most of his greatest works, that is, from 1599 to 1611, the reason for the holding of the festival there becomes apparent.

The first stage of the proceedings was the assembly in Southwark Cathedral of those who wished to do honor to Shakespeare's memory. In the days of Elizabeth, that building was known as St. Saviour's Church and still belonged to the diocese of Winchester. There Shakespeare's brother, Edmund, who was also an actor, was buried, and near him lie the remains of Massinger and Fletcher; there is the Shakespeare Memorial, a recumbent effigy of the poet in alabaster; and there is one window, with figures of Spenser and Shakespeare on each side of the Muse of Poetry, and another in memory of Edward Alleyne, who played at the Rose with Shakespeare, and who afterward, as the inscription does not forget to say, became "the magnificent founder of Dulwich College, in 1619."

From the Cathedral, so rich in historical and literary associations, the company wended its way to Bankside, which in modern times skirts the Thames from Cannon Street Railway Bridge all the way to Blackfriars Bridge. Now a location of stores and wharves, it bears little resemblance to the pleasure resort that it was in Shakespeare's day. In this vicinity are the sites of the Rose Theater and the more famous Globe Theater. The latter, as every one knows, was built by the Burbages in 1598 and stood until 1613, when it was burnt down during a performance of "King Henry VIII." Another theater, built on the same site, was demolished during the Puritan dominance in 1644. The spot is now marked by a tablet in the wall of the Barclay & Perkins Brewery.

The proceedings terminated by a performance on an outdoor stage of scenes from "Julius Caesar" and "Othello" by the Overian Players, a local dramatic society of working men and women.

In every way it would seem, the name of Shakespeare is held in respect and honored memory in that Surrey borough which he graced with his presence more than 300 years ago.

THE AUTOMOBILE TAX.

Doubtless opposition will develop against the proposal now under consideration by a Senate committee that the personal property tax on automobiles be collected at the time the license is granted. The change is suggested so that the District can collect tax money it is now losing. At the present time the personal property tax on automobiles is paid with the tax on other personal property, in September and March.

It probably would be easier to collect this tax when the tags are issued. Yet the public in general prefers to pay its taxes in two installments as permitted under the regulations. If the property tax on automobiles were to be collected apart from that on other personal property it could not be divided into two payments. It is said, on the other hand, that the District loses about $70,000 a year at present. About 45 per cent of local car owners, according to the assessor, evade the tax. If no other remedy is possible, the tax should be collected as tags are issued.

The personal property tax on automobiles should be the easiest of all to collect. The District has the list of licensed automobiles. Each represents a tangible taxable item. If a tax return is not made by each and every licensee, a simple comparison of lists should serve to bring to light the evaders. Thereafter, all the tax collector has to do is go out and get the money. The car itself can be attached. If the District is losing money on the personal property tax assessed against automobiles, it would seem to be the fault of the collection machinery. Why should the system be changed if, through increasing the efficiency of the existing system, the tax can be collected efficiently and better to meet the convenience of the taxpayer?

THE COMMUNITY CHEST.

The extension of the community chest idea to include cities that thus far have not adopted such a method of raising funds for charity has not been easy. There exists a general belief throughout the country that the community chest is not practicable—that people can not be persuaded to donate to charity unless the appeal is made specific. The community chest idea is sound, however, and it provides such great benefits that its general adoption is only a matter of time.

In most American cities, including Washington, each charity makes its individual solicitation for funds. The weak, those that do not have sympathetic appeal, usually suffer. The strong, those that have been established over a number of years and carry on work that catches public fancy, usually have little trouble in raising their budget. The many individual drives that must be carried on under this system, however, are expensive. If all organizations combine, as in the community chest plan, a single campaign suffices and it can be carried through at relatively small cost.

In addition, the public gains through the community chest, in that it is not constantly importuned for funds. With a community chest, the citizen can decide exactly how much he can afford to contribute to the charitable and social service agencies of his community, and make a definite contribution in one campaign, to be paid in a lump sum or distributed over such period as he desires.

There have been many instances in which the community chest plan has failed. Evidence points to the fact, however, that failure of a community chest campaign usually comes about because of inexperience or mismanagement. The City of Cincinnati has just completed its 1928 community chest campaign. Months ago those directing the movement met, considered the requests and needs of the 85 institutions that derive their support from the chest in this Ohio city, and established the fact that $2,014,000 would be needed during 1928. A week ago 1,500 volunteer workers, under the generalship of a leading citizen, divided into 36 teams, started to work. At the close of the campaign they had received pledges amounting to $2,022,539, or $7,549 more than the budget. More than 93,000 individuals, in a city of 500,000, made contributions.

For years a similar story has been written of each community chest campaign in Cincinnati. Its citizens have contributed their tithes to charity in one swoop, and have not been bothered or interrupted with campaigns or tag days during the succeeding 12-month period. What Cincinnati can do, other cities can do. The community chest is not a visionary, impracticable matter, but is a modern, scientific and economic scheme by which a community can adequately raise funds for the care of those upon whom fortune has turned her back.

DANGEROUS DAMS.

Following so closely on the heels of the St. Francis disaster in California, the failure of the Table Rock Cove Dam in South Carolina should serve to impress further upon public officials the fact that man-made barriers impounding water are always potentially dangerous. Fortunately in the case of Table Rock Cove no lives have been lost. The danger was discovered early enough to make possible broadcasting of a general warning that the dam had begun to seep water. The 20,000 residents of the valley beneath the dam, doubtless influenced by their fresh memory of what happened when the St. Francis Dam went out, lost no time seeking safety in high places.

The Table Rock Cove structure is new. The dam, 700 feet long, 145 feet high, and 750 feet thick at the base, with a 50-foot crown, served to impound 5,000,000,000 gallons of water intended for use in the waterworks system of Greenville. The dam was completed only last fall, at a cost of $1,000,000, but had not yet been put to use, as the reservoir it created had not completely filled.

It would seem that a dam so recently completed should have been absolutely sound. Surely a municipality would engage engineers and builders for such a project who were thoroughly capable and experienced in similar engineering projects. Certainly no city would throw up a structure so potentially dangerous without first making certain that the terrain was fit to hold it and that it could be constructed with ample safety factors. Unless information to the contrary is developed, it must be taken for granted that the Table Rock Cove Dam was properly designed and built. Yet it proved to be defective.

The time has arrived in which a competent dam inspection service should be created, possibly under enlarged authority granted to the Federal Power Commission. Such a body should first ascertain beyond all doubt that contemplated power or water storage projects are properly designed and engineered with due regard to ample factors of safety. Once a structure is completed it should be regularly and minutely inspected by trained and experienced engineers.

CRIME WITH GUNS.

A political upheaval is threatened in New York because of the report of the police commissioner recording an increase in crime for the first three months of 1928, over the corresponding period in 1927. The difficulties which this may lead to in the city government of New York are not as important as some of the facts disclosed by the report. It shows, for instance, a decided increase in crimes involving the use of revolvers, such as murder and manslaughter, felonious assault and assault and robbery.

The answer is believed to be that modern criminals have found it much more profitable to conduct their operations in such a way as to eliminate the middleman, who to thieves is represented by the fence. The burglar can never cash in the full value of his depredations. He is forced to deal through the fence and sell his loot at a discount. The usual percentage the criminal receives is about 20 per cent of face value. He can never hope to get more than half of the ultimate selling price.

The highway robber and bandit need take no such cut. He operates almost entirely where cash is to be had. A stolen pay roll need not be discounted. A rich man when held up represents clear profit. There is no bulky merchandise to hide and no difficulty in carting away what has been obtained. All that is needed is a gun and a handkerchief.

The facts disclosed in New York are obvious arguments in behalf of more stringent regulations covering the sale of firearms. As long as it is possible for any and all criminals to obtain revolvers, shotguns and machine guns at pleasure there is not likely to be a decided decrease in the type of crime which is now so prevalent. State governments should lose no time falling in line with the Federal laws which now restrict the sale of firearms.

CHANGING COSTUMES.

A survey conducted recently by the National Retail Dry Goods Association has led to the opinion that the automobile is responsible for many changes noticeable recently in the public demand for clothing. Since the use of cars has become so general women have adopted a simple type of dress made of fabrics that will muss the least, and which are moderate in price. The increasing popularity of closed cars has led to a demand for lighter clothing the year round. The only apparent effect that motoring has had with respect to wearing apparel for men is that nowadays they wear fewer pairs of shoes in a year than formerly. Figures compiled by the boot and shoe industry indicate a falling off of about one-third in the demand for men's shoes. Women's footwear sells better than ever, despite the automobile, due, it is believed, to the modern desire for harmony of costume.

Increase in travel by other means than automobiles, the popularity of country clubs and the increased attendance at sporting events have forced the retailers of men and women's clothing to make still other changes. The conclusion which the association draws from these circumstances is that it is no longer possible to conduct retail institutions on traditions of the past. This is eminently correct, and the successful merchant should look beyond the present into the future. The day of airplane travel is here. The styles of tomorrow must shape themselves for that form of locomotion. Beyond the airplane the future has not as yet revealed itself, but there will be other innovations. No industry today can fashion itself entirely on the traditions of the past. It should take the best of what experience has taught it, and combine those lessons with the courage to keep step with the present and anticipate the future. The world is moving too fast for tradition to be the guiding principle. Habit can only hope to serve as a background for progress.

PRODUCTIVITY SPEEDED UP.

Speed in production represents in the minds of competent persons the most notable advance that has been made in industry in the last quarter of a century. An automobile is less than an hour away from the raw materials of which it is composed.

The acceleration of modern business has presented many new problems for solution, and as a result management engineers, members of an entirely new technical profession, do much to direct the course of industry. Attention is focused by them on the various forces that compose modern industry. It is necessary to measure the rate of movement of these forces in order to understand what influence the speed of one has on another, and to know how to accelerate or retard their flow.

In American industrial plants the output per man is now about 35 per cent greater than it was just before the war, according to a statement recently made by one of the Nation's leading financial authorities. This remarkable increase in productivity is due not to speeding up workmen, but to the introduction of scientific methods of management which have brought about improvements in machinery and processes, elimination of fatigue, increased skill of workers, reduction of waste, and higher wages for workmen.

Modern management, which has played so large a part in this accomplishment, is applicable to industries of all kinds, both those that are highly developed and those that are not. It has probably been carried farthest in metal-working industries, but in recent years much progress has been made in its application to coal mining, forestry, and other industries that can never be entirely standardized. The more complex and intangible the problem, the more need there is for this type of management.

Forgotten Heroes.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: An ignorant English woman would like to know why distinguished flying crosses were not presented to the two Englishmen who were the first to make the flight across the Atlantic.

In July, 1923, they not only flew to the United States but returned to England in the dirigible R-33.

All honor to the German and Irish crew of the Bremen, but the English men are deserving of some mention, too.

Why Smith Is Strong.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In Thursday's issue of The Post I noticed what Senator King said of Gov. Smith's popularity. He said: "I have been amazed by the growth and volume of the Smith sentiment in the country, and I am frank to say that I am at a loss to understand the source of his strength."

As simply one of the "men of the street," I think I can inform the bewildered senator of the real reasons. One reason is the people are tired of this character-destroying investigating business of Reed and Walsh. The second reason is the Nation as a whole is tired of this diabolical prohibition miscarriage. The people simply want to get "back to normalcy."

H. W. HARDY.

Davy Crockett's Advice.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The exhibitions by the backers of McNary-Hogginism and other similarly unconstitutional measures justify the belief that some of our legislators have taken seriously the ironical advice that Davy Crockett in a spirit of levity gave to aspiring politicians in 1836. Col. Crockett then said:

"If your ambition or circumstances compel you to serve your country, and earn $3 a day, by becoming a member of the legislature, you must first publicly avow that the constitution of the State is a shackle upon free and liberal legislation; and is, therefore, of as little use in the present enlightened age as an old almanac of the year in which the instrument was framed. There is policy in this measure, for by making the constitution a mere dead letter, your headlong proceedings will be attributed to a bold and unshackled mind; whereas, it might otherwise be thought that they arose from sheer mulish ignorance."

Examined under the light of ordinary common sense, the headlong proceedings of some of our national legislators may justly be attributed to sheer mulish ignorance, plus what they believe to be political expediency.

F. L. P.

Abortive Third Party Schemes.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The talk of forming a third party appears to have stirred up the leaders of the old parties. The proposed new party is to be made up, if I read the signs aright, of Democrats who will resent the nomination of Smith, Republicans who do not like Hoover, and the mongrels in the Northwest who have been stiling under the names of Progressives and Farm-Labor. The anti-Smiths are those who are radically dry, and who look upon him as being wet. Yet former Secretary of the Navy Daniels says the Houston convention will declare in its platform for the rigid enforcement of all laws, and that Gov. Smith will stand with both feet on that platform. "All laws" will include the Volstead act. If the papers printed all Mr. Daniels had to say, he carefully avoided predicting that the Houston platform would declare in favor of the enforcement of all the provisions of the Constitution and the amendments. Such a declaration would include the thirteenth and fourteenth amendments, and would at once put the Democratic party in coventry in all the States south of the Mason and Dixon line.

No doubt there are a large number of Republicans who do not like Hoover, who believe he is not strong on all Republican doctrines, but should he be nominated they will not carry their resentment to the extreme of voting against him. The Progressives and Farm-Laborites will flock off to themselves, as will the Prohibitionists, it matters not how many other parties are started. They will not combine with any element that does not let the mlead. Only twice in all our political history have any great number of Democrats repudiated their regular ticket. The first was in 1844, when Van Buren led a number into a third party movement, and the other was in 1896, when they revolted against Bryan. It is not likely that any third party will carry off many Democrats, even if Smith is the nominee; so there is no cause for uneasiness.

Making Friends

By ROBERT QUILLEN

SOME boys have slight physical imperfections that make them morbidly sensitive; some are cowards; some have been made snobbish by silly parents. All of these develop a protective shell to keep out the world. As men they are unapproachable.

But the normal boy, who has developed in contact with his kind and has no reason to be afraid or feel ashamed, has a natural capacity for fellowship. He enjoys people.

Then why is it that the average man resents the advances of strangers?

If you travel much, you divide men into two classes: shallow, stupid, boastful, talkative men who tell strangers about their private affairs, and men with cold eyes who discourage conversation.

But these men with cold eyes who wish to be let alone are not cold-hearted men. They have families, friends, hobbies, charities. Intimates call them "Bill."

How, then, do you explain them?

Well, consider the pup. The pup is eager to make friends. He approaches strangers with tail a-wag and eyes alight with good fellowship. He wishes to be petted; he wishes to lick hands.

But his very eagerness is his undoing. He gets kicked in the ribs. He is a pest. And because he is repulsed and abused, he loses confidence in mankind. He becomes a sneak, or he learns to growl when a hand is extended to pat him. He is suspicious, and the root of his suspicion is fear.

Precisely the same thing happens to the normal young man who has a capacity for fellowship. He gets hurt because he trusts too much, and then he becomes cynical and fears too much.

The cold and distant man who repulses your advances is afraid of you. He has learned that people who make advances are nuisances or oily men who have designs on him.

His cynicism is a pose—a protective mechanism. He doesn't resent a hand on his knee because he is an aristocrat, but because strangers who place a hand on one's knees are asses.

His aloofness is a confession that he has blisters. Cynicism is merely the outward evidence of concealed scars.

Making friends of men is like making friends of wild creatures. Sit quietly and the birds learn not to be afraid of you; reveal your eagerness and they fly away.

Some European countries despise Americans, and some are not on the regular tourist routes.

When a woman says she hasn't anything to wear, that is, of course, an exaggeration, but not much of one.

There's one consolation. As machines throw men out of work they can become salesmen; and there never will be a mechanical drummer.

Just Five Years.

Louisville Times: The way things are going, it is only going to take about five more years for those artists who design women's dresses to work themselves out of jobs.

True to Form.

Indianapolis News: There are fears that cornstalks floating down the Wabash flood will spread the corn borer. If the darned thing were a beneficent worm it would drown.

FLAMING YOUTH OF OLD.

Fast-living college boys of the eighteenth century, says the Detroit News, lived by rules and survived punishments rather more severe than those meted out to their present-day successors, to judge by "Laws and Orders of the College of New York, adopted June 5, 1755," and the "Black Book," the latter being a chronicle of disciplinary measures taken in the cases of unruly students.

The former volume informs one that "Every pupil shall behave with the utmost decency at Publick Worship, and whoever is proved guilty of any profane or indecent behavior, as talking, laughing, justling, winking, &c., h shall submit to an admonition for the first offense and to an Extraordinary Exercise for the second and, if Obstinate, expelled." Another paragraph provides that "If any Pupil shall be convicted of Drunkenness, Lying, Theft, Swearing, Cursing or any other scandalous immorality he shall submit to open admonition and confession of his fault or be expelled if his Crime is adjudged too heinous for lesser Punishment and especially if he be contumacious."

Many were the sinners who found places in "The Black Book." Its first entry tells how "Shreeve, Abrahams, Bogert, were confined to College for taking Teacups out of another student's room." Further on it is related that "Robinson spit in the Cook's Face, kicked and otherwise abused him; of which he complained to the Governors as they came out of Chapel."

PRESS COMMENT.

Split 'Em Up.

New Orleans Times Picayune: "Dry planks" ought to be easily split, these thirsty days.

Too Many Laws.

Buffalo News: The laws aren't respected? Well, diamonds wouldn't be if they were as numerous as pebbles.

You Can't Kill It.

Florida Times-Union: Some politicians refer to prohibition as a dead issue. If it is some one did an excellent job of embalming.

Odd Definitions.

Cincinnati Enquirer: Optimist—A fellow who thinks that now he has a cigarette lighter he won't need to carry a box of matches.

Another Museum Piece.

Now and Then.

Boston Herald: Now is the time when the candidates have their ears to the ground. After the convention most of them will have their backs there.

Sounds Final.

Toledo Blade: Jack Dempsey will return to the ring if Heeney whips Tunney. Guess Jack meant it when he announced that he was through fighting.

Houston Post Dispatch: Capt. Wilkins flew over the North Pole last week, but up to today no one has equaled the feat of Capt. Nemo, in Jules Verne's story, who dived under it. Fiction continues to be stranger than truth.

Safe America.

Troy Times: Sir A. Conan Doyle tells us what we have done; the fortune tellers tell us what we are going to do; the tax collectors tell us what we must do, and the prohibitionists tell us what we can't do. Surely America is being made safe for hypocrisy.

Saving the Wheat.

Topeka Capital: Saving the wheat crop, as Billy Morgan notes, is now in order. It is one of the important annual functions in Kansas. Mr. Morgan correctly remarks that "sometimes the crop is saved by the Weather Bureau, sometimes by the State board of agriculture, sometimes by the Federal department and sometimes just by the newspapers." What would happen if some year all these guardians of the wheat crop had their attention called to something else and forgot all about it is a question. The chances are, however, that the wheat crop would surprise everybody by saving itself.

The Movie Victory.

Philadelphia Ledger: The silly attempt of the French government to help the movie industry of France by rationing American films on a four-to-one basis has been abandoned. Rather than submit to the requirement of purchasing one French production for every four American pictures exhibited in France, the American producers in March decided to withdraw entirely from the French field. The threat to deprive French film fans of the pictures they prefer above all others seems to have been thoroughly effective. Patriotism is not enough when it comes to screen entertainment, and the American movie has so solid a hold upon the predilections of audiences all over the world that it can launch ultimatums to governments and make the mighty tremble. There is something humorous in the whole situation; but those who are trying to compete with America in giving people pictures they like to look at can not see it.

Don't Let Sentiment Overrule Good Judgment

This is the age of standardized service. You simply would not tolerate in your business anything "below standard." YOU—careful, hard-headed business man—who have accumulated money and property by your energy and good judgment, are you going to appoint your wife, friend or relative as executor—to be the BUSINESS MANAGER of your estate, the guardian of your children's patrimony?

Even though your choice is wholly qualified, has he—or she—a perpetual lease on life? Will he never go away on a vacation or, worse yet, become insane? Is he not subject to all human weaknesses and temptations? Why trust to chance when you have available the STANDARDIZED EXECUTORSHIP of the trust department of a strong bank?

Every point of our personal service will appeal to your business judgment.

IMPORTANT TRADES SHOW BETTERMENT; WEATHER A FACTOR

Further Irregularities Develop in Some Lines; Steel Mills Are Busy.

CAR LOADINGS INCREASE FIRST TIME IN MONTHS

New York, May 6 (A.P.).—Further irregularities developed in the business situation this week, but improvement was noted in several important lines. Retail trade was stimulated by the return of higher temperatures and output in the so-called "key industries" was maintained in large volume.

Steel mill operations are being maintained at a relatively high rate, particularly in the Chicago district, but orders are generally small in size, and prices have shown a weakening tendency. Automobile output is steadily expanding with practically all leading producers running ahead of last year's schedules, and the Ford factories rapidly increasing production on the new models.

Freight car loadings showed an increase above the previous week for the first time in months, but were still running below those of the corresponding weeks of 1927 and 1926. This may be due, in part, to the loss of traffic through motor truck competition, particularly in short-haul business.

Oil Operators Fail to Agree.

Belief that the oil industry had "turned the corner," which was reflected in the revival of activity and strength in the oil securities, was shaken somewhat by reports that the Seminole field operators had failed to reach an agreement to extend the curtailed production program in that field. Bunker Oil in New York fell to the lowest level since 1922, although the recent increases in gasoline prices were maintained.

Sharp rises in the prices of grains and cotton, part of which were forfeited on the improvement in weather conditions, led to hopes of increased purchasing power in the agricultural regions, which, it was conceded, might have important political as well as economic effects.

Business mortality, measured by the number of commercial failures and the amount of liabilities, showed a decline in April to the lowest level since last September, according to R. G. Dun's compilation.

Bank clearings in the first week of May showed a substantial increase over the same period a year ago, due, in part, to the gigantic speculation in securities.

With the passing of month-end demands, the credit situation turned a little easier. Retention of the 4 per cent rediscount rate by the New York Federal Reserve Bank, despite the increase to 4½ per cent by five other Federal Reserve institutions in the last few weeks, followed the lowering of call money rates as funds piled into New York from interior banks.

Brokers' loans mounted to record high levels as speculators for the advance resumed full swing, the stock exchange members' total running close to $5,000,000,000.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, May 6 (A.P.).—Formation of the Alabama Mills Co. to operate ten cotton mills in northern and central Alabama, with total capacity of 100,000 spindles, was announced today. The company will begin operations with cash working capital of $1,000,000. An issue of $3,000,000 of 6½ per cent first mortgage bonds has been sold to Caldwell & Co. Crawford Johnson, c Birmingham, has been elected president of the company, and Paul A. Redmond, formerly with the Aragon Mills of Rome, Ga., will be executive vice president in charge of mill operations. Plants will be in Aliceville, Clanton, Dadeville, Fayette, Greenville, Haleyville, Jasper, Russellville, Wetumpka and Winfield.

Despite a sharp decline in first quarter earnings of Freeport Texas Co., the balance sheet as of February 29 shows the company in a strong position with $2,497,503 cash and $1,013,750 in Government bonds on hand against $1,233,664 cash and $1,013,750 in bonds a year ago.

Eastern States Power Corporation gross income of $622,040 for the four months this year against $48,631 in the same period last year and a balance of $613,651 for dividends, compared with $40,706 a year ago. Surplus was $2,276,731.

Due to continued expansion in the purchasing power of the Polish people, the number of automobiles in Poland has tripled in the last three years. There is now one car to every 1,174 persons, compared with one car to every 3,168 in 1924, the American Polish Chamber of Commerce reports. More than half the automobiles now in use are American cars.

William G. Skelly, president of Skelly Oil Co., has been reelected president of the International Petroleum Expositoin for the third time. The exposition will be held in Tulsa, Okla., in October. Burr Gibbons, former president of the Tulsa Chamber of Commerce, was appointed general manager.

First quarter net income of Federal Bakeshops was $57,903, equal to more than three times dividend requirements for the period on the 7 per cent preferred stock and an increase of about 35 per cent over the first quarter last year.

Offerings will be made this week of 30,000 shares of common stock of the Seton Leather Co., of Newark, N. J., one of the largest manufacturers of patent leather in the country. The company earned $3.90 a share on the common in 1927.

He was given a suspended sentence on a charge of drunkenness after promising to abtain from liquor. Physicians said his death was due to heart disease.

WEEK'S CURB DEALINGS AT HISTORY'S TOP MARK

OIL LIST UNDER PRESSURE

New York, May 6 (A.P.).—The curb market experienced one of the busiest weeks in its history, with total sales averaging close to 1,000,000 shares daily. Early in the week uncertainty over the credit situation caused weakness in the general list, but oil and industrial specialty stocks attracted heavy buying and prices improved.

When the Federal Reserve rediscount rate was maintained and trade conditions brightened later in the week, bullish demonstrations replaced the earlier hesitancy and the general list moved up. Some oils, however, were an exception, selling off from earlier high prices, apparently on reports of increased production, and handing the market leadership over to the utilities.

Motors and accessories, sugars, chain stores and mines and metals each had their brief day in the limelight of advance during the week.

Motor products was outstanding with a gain of 20 points. The Pender grocery issues also made a sensational advance late in the week, carrying with it Neisner Brothers and a few others Shattuck Denn led the rise of the mines with a buying spurt inspired by reports that the company had struck rich ore in its Denn mine Bancitaly was another feature, crossing $200 for the first time and continuing on to a new high above $220 before profit-taking set in.

United Gas Improvement was a feature of the utility group, soaring more than 8 points on reports the company has acquired a substantial block of Public Service of New Jersey stock. Tampa Electric, American Light & Traction, Buffalo, Niagara & Eastern and others also showed good gains, the latter attracting buying demand on reports that a merger with other western New York utility companies is nearing completion. Long Island Lighting was a feature late in the week, soaring 65 points to an all-time high of 250 on a turnover of only 50 shares, the reason for the rise not being apparent.

The oils, particularly Darby Petroleum, Penn. Mex. Fuel, Lion and Leonard and a few of the Standard were strong early in the week, but declined under pressure of profit-taking toward the close. Vacuum retained its strength, however, and American Maracaibo also was strong, due apparently to reports of transfer of acreage in Venezuela to the company by Pan-American Eastern, which has a substantial interest in Maracaibo.

Ultraviolet Rays Help Work of Dentist

New York, May 6 (A.P.).—Ultraviolet rays are being used in the oral surgery clinic at the New York University College of Dentistry to hasten the repair of bone tissue that is broken down when teeth are extracted.

It has been customary for dentists to allow nature to take her own course in replacing bone cells destroyed by such operations, but the new method utilizes the rays to stimulate the deposition of new material. A special lamp permits the healing light to be focused on small surfaces in the mouth.

BOND MARKET DISPLAYS LESS ANIMATED TRADING

High-Grade Issues Change Only Nominally; New Offerings Moderate.

TRACTIONS WELL TAKEN

New York, May 6 (A.P.).—Trading in the bond market last week was much less spirited than in the preceding six days. Prices of high-grade mortgages showed only nominal changes, as if the supply and demand were about evenly balanced. Heavy disbursements of interests and dividends around the first of the month appeared to have little effect on buying, much of the May 1 reinvestment demand having been taken care of in the active trading of the previous week.

Bond buyers continued to keep wary eyes upon the money market, although none of the seven Federal Reserve rediscount rates remaining at the lower level of 4 per cent was changed, the feeling persisted in many quarters that the 4½ per cent rate would be made universal within a few weeks. Little change in time money or commercial paper rates was noted, while call money eased off from the stiff charge prevailing at the beginning of the month.

New offerings arrived on the market in moderately large volume, which, following a sharp increase in new issues in the week before, probably had some bearing on the slowing up of trading. Nevertheless, there was no indication of any danger of a recurrence of last year's serious congestion, as the larger part of the new financing was reported promptly absorbed by dealers. The week's total of new loans approximated $144,224,000, compared with about $158,080,000 in the preceding week and around $126,154,000 in the corresponding week of 1927.

New loans in process of negotiation are not especially numerous. Chief among them, probably, is a $30,000,000 issue of 4 per cent bonds of the Province of Ontario to be offered to the public next Wednesday. Reports of a moderate amount of Italian and German financing were given some color by the firm trend of obligations of those countries and their industries. Italian industrials were particularly well bought, liens of the Fiat, Montecantini and Pirelli companies all selling at their best prices of the year.

The triumph of the Poincare government in the recent French election advanced the plans for stabilization of the franc materially. The republic's financial program includes plans to refund existing debts at lower rates of interest. Whether large credits would be necessary in the restoration of the gold standard continued to be a subject of widespread speculation. What steps might be taken toward refunding the war debt to America also was a point of high interest.

In the listed market bonds having features of a semispeculative nature were active throughout the week. Mortgages of New York Rapid Transit Companies were bought in unusually large amounts toward the end of the week, when a court ruling granting an increase in fares was announced. Although the increase is being bitterly contested, prices of Interborough bonds and those of affiliated companies advanced rapidly to the highest level of the year.

Evidences of "bargain hunting" again appeared in the activity and periodical strength of several such low priced liens as Minneapolis & St. Louis, Iowa Central and Peoria & Eastern issues, most of which are quoted well under 50.

Federal Government securities had a generally firm trend. Some of the Liberty bonds were purchased in rather large quantities, and the comparative quiet of Treasury issues indicated a cessation, for the moment at least, of heavy selling by the Federal Reserve system.

The outward movement of gold, which has been in progress since last fall, was not particularly large. Expectations of large exports to England were cut short by softening of sterling exchange, which sank again below $4.88.

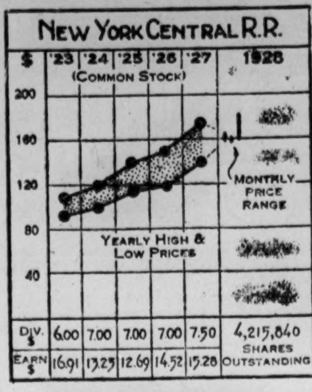
What's Behind Your Stock?



New York Central Railroad Co.

The main line of the New York Central Railroad Co. extends from New York to Chicago, with many important branches and connecting leased lines. Including Ohio Central Lines and Boston and Albany, 6,928 miles of road are operated. The company taps the coal fields of Pennsylvania and West Virginia and has important connections into the Pittsburgh steel district. About two-thirds of revenue freight tonnage is derived from connecting lines. The total tonnage handled is subject to wide fluctuations, in accordance with business conditions in its territory, but on the average has shown an appreciable increase.

The net income of $58,565,145 in 1927 was the largest in the history of the road.

CAPITALIZATION.

Funded debt $684,629,139
Common stock (par $100).. 421,584,000
Preferred stock, none.

Current data—Under date of April 6, 1928, it was reported that officials of Pennsylvania, New York Central and other railroads, at a conference the previous day, had agreed on a plan for a four-trunk system which had met the approval of L. F. Loree, sponsor of a fifth trunk line system. Pennsylvania had withdrawn its support of a fifth trunk system, but favored the new plan. New York Central had previously been reported as due to receive Delaware, Lackawanna and Western and this possibility was regarded as strengthened as the result of these deliberations.

Investment versus Speculation

A HIGH-GRADE first mortgage bond may be a speculation. A non-dividend paying common stock may be an investment. To purchase securities of any kind solely on the chance of making a "quick turn" is speculation. To purchase securities of any kind on the knowledge of their comparative economic value is investment. If your guess is wrong in speculating, you will lose however good the security you buy. If your knowledge is sound in investing, you will gain even though your investment may be in equities.

This country of ours, whose financial worth is represented in large measure by a fair value of the securities of its corporations, is built on a firmer foundation than "guessing right on tomorrow's market". The extent to which the present security activity is governed merely by the contagious spirit of speculation benefits this country little. Speculation often leads to distorted comparative values and to fictitious levels. Investment usually leads to stability and growth. Much speculation is non-productive; most investment is productive.

If you believe in the continued progress and development of the United States; if you believe in the continued ability of the American banker and business man through his integrity, resourcefulness, energy, courage and vision to make us an ever-more productive force in domestic and world affairs and markets—then the investment value in good bonds is more than sufficient to insure the payment of principal and interest and in sound equities more than enough to attract long term investment.

There is uncertainty in the present security markets if the buyer speculates; there is opportunity if he invests.

A letter from Mr. E. W. Backus, President of the Company, is summarized as follows:

Company and Property: Great Lakes Paper Company, Limited, incorporated under the laws of the Province of Ontario, owns and for several years has operated a modern ground wood pulp mill at Fort William, Ontario. The capacity of this mill with the addition now nearing completion, is more than sufficient to furnish all the requirements of its newsprint paper mill of 100,000 tons annual capacity, which the Company is now constructing together with a sulphite mill, docks for water shipments via the Great Lakes, and railroad and plant terminals. The first unit of the paper mill is scheduled to commence operations by May, 1928, and the second unit by May, 1929. Completion of construction, with no increase in funded debt, is guaranteed by the Backus-Brooks Company. The Company holds under agreement with the Province of Ontario, valuable timber and pulpwood limits in Ontario accessible to its mills, sufficient to supply mills with 200,000 tons annual capacity for over 50 years.

Security: The First Mortgage Sinking Fund Gold Bonds will be secured by a direct first lien on all of the physical property of the Company now owned, and by a direct or collateral first lien on all such property hereafter acquired by the Company, or owned by its principal subsidiaries, if any.

The Company's balance sheet, as of December 31, 1927, giving effect to the present financing and transactions incident thereto, and with timber and pulpwood limits recorded at less than appraised value, discloses net tangible assets, after deducting all liabilities except these Bonds, of $29,388,124, and net current assets of $2,652,397.

Earnings: Net earnings of the Company from newsprint at present market price which is below normal, together with earnings from sale of surplus ground wood and sulphite, and by-products from forest operations, after depletion, local taxes, and liberal charges for maintenance and repairs, but before providing for interest, depreciation and income taxes for the calendar years of 1929 and 1930, are estimated to be $1,812,000 and $2,265,000 respectively, while maximum annual interest charges on these Bonds require $600,000.

Sinking Fund: A sinking fund, sufficient to retire all Series A Bonds by maturity, will be provided.

Management: The Company will be wholly owned through ownership of all outstanding stock, except Directors' qualifying shares, by the Backus-Brooks Company of Minneapolis, Minnesota, which also owns over 85% of all outstanding capital stock of the Minnesota and Ontario Paper Company. The Company is thus assured of efficient management by men who have been eminently successful in the newsprint paper business. Upon completion of the construction now under way by the companies controlled by the Backus-Brooks Company, this group will have newsprint paper capacity ranking among the leading groups on the North American Continent.

A circular more fully descriptive of these Bonds will be sent on request.

British Open Play Starts Today

English Fail to Pick Favorite With Jones Absent This Year.

Hagen May Surprise, Is Report; Courses in Best Shape.

SANDWICH, England, May 6 (A.P.).—A real open championship is in prospect when the British open event starts here tomorrow. Bobby Jones, the present title holder, is absent, and Walter Hagen, twice winner of the championship, is in a state of eclipse after his overwhelming defeat by Archie Compston last week.

Among the British stars the followers of golf in England are unable to pick a favorite. Compston, Abe Mitchell, Arthur Havers and half a dozen others are getting some backing.

Hagen would easily have ruled as favorite for the title had he not been smothered so completely at Moor Park. Compston, because of his victory there, would be the pick of the British if their hearts were not set on having Mitchell win. The British are not supposed to be sentimental, but they are very much so about Abe Mitchell.

Hagen is a greatly changed young man since last week, when, for almost the first time in his career, a golf ball flatly refused to perform tricks for him.

"I'm worse than ever," a chastened and contrite "Sir Walter" said today.

But Hagen's appearance belies this statement. He looks 100 per cent keener and fresher than when he arrived in England, and a week's practice has done him worlds of good, although he lost again to Compston today, in a friendly putting match.

All of the American contingent have been turning in good scores in their practice rounds. Long Jim Barnes shared the low-scoring honors with Havers with 69. Larry Nabholtz has been maintaining his reputation as a long hitter, with Wild Bill Mehlhorn pushing him. In practice today Mehlhorn's fine tee shots made the longest holes on the royal St. George's course seem easy. But he weakened when he reached the green.

"Putting is my only trouble," Bill said, and he showed it, although he scored a fine 70.

The young Californian, McHugh, is easily the most formidable among the slender American amateur contingent. Compston, who is trying to learn the American language, introduced McHugh to friends today as "the guy who is going to do well at Sandwich and then clean up the British amateurs at Prestwick at the end of this month." Archie cheered McHugh's shots with hearty shouts of "Attaboy."

Harry Vardon picks Havers as the probable winner of the title this year. Havers, he says, is hitting the ball better than any of the other British hopes.

Jack White, the 1904 winner, is backing Sarazen, saying that he is the only one of the Americans or British he has seen who can consistently control the ball through the fairways and stop it where he wants it on the greens.

Low scoring has been the rule in practice, with rounds in the early 70s almost too numerous to mention, but prechampionship seventies have the habit of becoming 75s in actual competition.

According to the veteran British pro. J. H. Taylor, it is probable that a score of 292—four 73s—will be made next week if the good weather holds, and any one who can slip in a 68 among them, as Jones did last year, may consider the trophy in his pocket.

The two courses over which the qualifying rounds are to be played tomorrow, the Royal St. George's and Prince's, are reported to be in the best condition in their long history.

President of League Is Permitted to Play

Special to The Washington Post.

Appleton, Wis., May 6.—What is thought to be a world's record of some kind was set by moguls of the Fox River Valley Baseball League when they allowed C. G. Baetz, league president, to play baseball with the Appleton Club, of which he has been a member since its organization three years ago and manager for two years. Last year he was business manager. It is believed that no other league in the world has a playing president, that no other league ever had one or perhaps ever will have one, even though now a precedent is set.

Sandlot Teams Open Record Season

550 Players, 46 Clubs in Debut of Capital City League.

More Than 5,000 See First Contests for Post Trophies.

PLAYING for The Washington Post trophies, the Capital City League teams in four of the five classes opened their season yesterday and, despite the cold and threatening weather, the games were played as scheduled and several teams displayed midseason form in batting to close, hard-fought decisions. It is estimated that 5,000 people saw the games.

Participating in the section A unlimited, senior, junior and American Legion classes were 46 teams. More than 550 players participated in the games.

Games in the unlimited class as a rule were settled by decisive scores, the Chevy Chase Bearcats, Georgetown, St. Mary's Celtics and Shamrocks winning by good margins over Jewish Community Center, Petworth A. C., Addison and the Maryland A. C., respectively. One of the biggest upsets of the day was recorded when the Woodridge Club, a dark-horse entry in the league battled the Dreadnaughts at Alexandria to ten innings to finally win.

Contests in the American Legion section of the league were bitterly contested. These teams are fighting for the right to enter the State and sectional tournaments which lead up to the junior world series and the loss of a game does not put a team out of the running, but puts it at a disadvantage.

In the junior section, twelve teams began their campaign as the Jewish Community Center, the thirteenth team of the section, was forced to idle. One of the closest games of the day was played in this section and a record for fast playing was set when the Brookland Boys' Club Team defeated the Hadley Juniors in an hour and 23 minutes.

Eight of the strongest senior clubs of this vicinity got under way and games in this class, in general, were the best of the entire league, the teams apparently being more evenly matched in their opening tests.

Games were scheduled in practically every corner of the city and at Alexandria, Arlington and on the Maryland A. C. Diamond, and it was estimated that more than 5,000 people saw the games played on the Monument Lot, the Plaza or on the various independent diamonds. With the first games, which, more or less, gave the managers an opportunity to size up their opponents, out of the way, the teams will now settle down to the drive for the pennant in their respective classes, and with better playing weather, which is sure to come, the fans can look forward to the greatest sandlot season ever enjoyed here.

Billings Holds Red Sox To 2 Hits; Tigers Win

Detroit, May 6 (A.P.).—Haskell Billings held the Boston Red Sox to two hits and the Detroit Tigers won today's game 3 to 0.

Both of Boston's blows were made by Buddy Myer, the former Washington infielder, now playing third for the Red Sox. His first hit came in the sixth when he drove a grounder between Warner and Tavener. He was left at first. In the eighth, with two men down, Meyer singled cleanly to center but again he got no farther than first base.

Merle Settlemire, a left-handed recruit from Mobile of the Southern Association, started for Boston but was wild and was relieved in the second inning. Bradley finished the game.

Heeney Finds Training Camp Requirement of Tex Rickard

Sweat Shop Gym Would Satisfy Fighter But He Aims to Please Writers; Delaney Aid to Wet Supporters.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, May 6.—Thomas Heeney is having a hard time making up his mind where to train for his prize fight with Gene Tunney, although his own wants are modest, and if he were pleasing only himself, he would decide to live in a walk-up flat in the Bronx and train in a regular sweat shop gymnasium.

But there are many others to be considered.

First, he must consider Tex Rickard and the 600 millionaire stockholders of the producing firm.

Mr. Rickard has learned that prize fighters training for heavyweight championship fights command more publicity when they retire to country or seaside places. The newspapers then send writers out to live close by them for from two to three weeks immediately preceding the prize fight and sometimes the syndicates hire novelists to motor out and do psychological studies.

But when the boys train within the city limits their activities are covered more casually and this spirit of apathy communicates itself to the customers.

Bowing to Mr. Rickard's will in the matter, Thomas then has to consider the preferences of the writers and he is showing really flattering consideration at present. Some of the writers wish Thomas to train in Atlantic City, because the diversions are so abundant and he hopes that the writers will not insist.

Many other places, far enough from New York to be considered as out of town, have been inspected by Charles Harvey, manager of Thomas. Stroudsburg, Pa., where Gene Tunney trained for the uplift of Philadelphia, would be as good as any other for Heeney, but some of the writers are dyspeptics and they state that the meals at the hotel are not of the best.

Orangeburg, N. Y., where Gus Wilson, late trainer of Jack Dempsey, has a nice cauliflower farm, much frequented by obscure prize fighters, might suit Thomas, but there seems to be some question regarding the adequacy of the telegraph facilities for the writers.

Although Thomas is a large, shaggy man with that out-of-doors appearance, he is determined, he states, to do most of his training in an inclosed place, such as an Odd Fellows hall or a school auditorium if there is no Y. M. C. A. gym available in the town ultimately selected.

Luis Angel Firpo was like that, too, although he was also large and shaggy and his nom de guerre, the Wild Bull of the Pampas, suggested a wild, free party addicted to rolling among the weeds and drinking out of a trough.

Luis Angel's favorite training resort was the old gymnasium on the top floor of the old Madison Square Garden, where the atmosphere was old and quite thick and strongly flavored with the bouquet of much worn training shirts, liniment and perspiration. In the afternoons large gatherings of unemployed New Yorkers would assemble, at a nominal admission fee of 25 cents, and scratch matches on the "no smoking" signs.

An expert in the conditioning of athletes would have said that this gym was no fit place for any one, sick or well, but there were always at least 50 prize fighters of all degrees moving about the room shadow boxing, lying on the floor doing the standard contortions or sitting astride the dummy bicycles, pedaling away by the hour to develop, as they sincerely believed, their wind and the muscles of their legs.

This is just the sort of place that Thomas Heeney would choose to train in, and Mr. Harvey says that wherever he goes, out of consideration for Mr. Rickard, his millionaire associates and the sport writers, Thomas will endeavor to recreate the atmosphere of a sweat-shop gym and positively will not chop down any trees or gambol among the bosky dells, lest he catch cold or ivy poison.

I wonder just who it is that is going to fight Gene Tunney, anyway. Is it Mr. Rickard, some millionaire stockholder, some sport writer, or is it Thomas Heeney?

The prize-fight commission has decided not to investigate the recent Delaney-Sharkey prize fight in which Jack Delaney was hit on his chin and fell down with unusual emphasis.

It has been reported that Mr. Delaney became tight when he was supposed to be training for the contest, and therefore was not in condition to put forth his best efforts. However, the commission has now been informed that owing to prohibition, Mr. Delaney could not have been tight, as alleged. If he was tight, it must have been before prohibition, and the offense would be outlawed by the statute of limitations.

I do not believe it is any of the prize fight commission's business whether Mr. Delaney was tight during his supposed training or not, but if getting tight was what enabled him to fall down in such an interesting manner, I believe that in the interests of the public he should be persuaded to get exceedingly tight and stay tight the next time he has a prize fight. The prize fight commission, with its political connections undoubtedly could furnish him the rum.

That prize fight with Sharkey, lasting just over one minute, was the only good entertainment that Delaney has given the customers in several years. If rum made him do what he did last Friday night, then that is just one more argument against prohibition.

Reds Beat Giants, 4-3, In 10th; Fielding Aids

Cincinnati, May 6 (A.P.).—Brilliant fielding enabled the Cincinnati Reds to win the second game of the series from the New York Giants in ten innings today, 4 to 3.

The Reds won with none out in the tenth when Critz started with a single. Hogan dropped Callaghan's roller and Critz went to third. Kelly sent up to bat for Pipp, was given an intentional pass filling the bases. Hargrave who batted for Walker hit a long fly to center. Roush seeing that Critz would score did not attempt to make the catch.

The Reds made four double plays which gave them a total of 33 this season.

Cubs Defeat Phillies In 11th; Malone Star

Chicago, May 6 (A.P.).—Pat Malone came to Sheriff Blake's rescue with the bases loaded in the seventh inning today and the Cubs defeated Philadelphia, 5 to 4, in 11 innings.

Malone's fast ball mystified the Phillies. He struck out eight men and held them to but one run and that came in the seventh when the bases were jammed with none out. The winning run came when Hack Wilson sent up a sacrific fly to Williams and Beck scored.

Browns Face Sam Jones In Final

Jack Ogden Is Due to Fling Against Nats This Afternoon.

Grant Gillis Better; Rice Gets Place in "Thumping Ten."

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

THE Brownies end their visit here this afternoon with Jack Ogden due to hurl for them and "Sad Sam" Jones Manager Harris' choice for box duty. Jones, who was obtained from the St. Louis Club via the waiver route, hurled an exceptional game in being credited with the Nats' only 1928 victory over the world's champion Yankees last Wednesday, and while he admits he is glad of being here, he is particularly anxious to show Manager Howley what a mistake he made in letting him go. Milton Gaston had the same idea yesterday, but flivvered.

As Ogden has won four games and lost but one this season, it looks as though Jones will again have to be at top form if he hopes to get the verdict, for the Nats, no doubt, will have plenty of trouble in getting a lot of runs for "Sad Sam."

In this game of baseball "breaks" come for most unusual reasons. Pal Ballinger, for instance, gets his chance with the Nationals because of the fact that he was crowded out of his regular berth at Birmingham by the veteran Jimmy Johnston. When President Griffith wired for help, Ballenger was the only infielder Johnny Dobbs, Baron manager, could spare.

Ballinger, who is due to arrive in Washington this morning, is not merely being brought here to help out until the injured Harrisian infielders are excused from the hospital squad, but was purchased outright. If he makes good he will be retained.

Working on the "turn about is fair play" basis, Griffith has promised the Birmingham Club, however, that, should it need Ballinger after the Nat cripples return to action, he may be repurchased.

Manager Harris is greatly pleased at the progress made by his mound department during the past week, practically all of his flingers now being in fairly good shape. Lloyd Brown, who but for the fact that waivers could not be obtained on him would now be playing in a Memphis uniform, has looked exceptionally good in relief roles on two occasions, while Irving Hadley, although relieved by Braxton Saturday showed that he is fast reaching top form. Tom Zachary, too, is ready, while considerable morning work has hardened Fred Marberry and taken off some excess fat so that he has just about reached the peak.

In Marberry's case, Manager Harris states that the big Texan will be used in the manner best suited to the needs of the team. He not only will start occasionally, but also will be called on for relief work when the Nat leader thinks he is the best available flinger for the job. He relieved Gaston yesterday.

Word from Garfield Hospital is to the effect that Grant Gillis' broken nose is healing nicely. Much of the swelling around the infielder's right eye has gone down and he could open it part way yesterday. He wanted to report at the Griffith Stadium yesterday, and it took considerable argument on the club physician's part to make him remain in bed.

He probably will be discharged from the hospital in three or four more days, but will not be allowed to resume practice for at a least a week more.

"Red" Barnes gave the fans a big laugh in the third inning yesterday. While backing up to take McNeely's drive, his heel struck a rough place and he landed with a thud, catching the ball while sitting down.

"Peter" Burch Georgetown University star pitcher, who has been declared ineligible at the Hilltop because of study difficulties, worked out with the Nationals before yesterday's game. He has several irons in the fire with a view toward signing with some minor league club.

German Shot-Putter Breaks World's Mark

Breslau, Germany, May 6 (A.P.).—Karl Hirschfeld today broke the world's record for the shot-put with a distance of 15.79 meters (51 feet 9½ inches). The former record, held by an American, Ralph Rose, was 15.54 meters (51 feet).

PRINTERS WIN, 30 TO 3.

The Union Printers scored a 30-to-3 victory over the Del Ray Nine yesterday. Hutchinson, McPherson, Hollis and Schneider, of the winners, hit home runs. The game was played at Potomac. Hollis pitched for the winners.

Gray Survives To Win His 6th Game

Judge's Single Evens Score With Bases Full in 9th.

Harris Triples Home 3 Runs; Gaston Is Routed in 4th.

BY SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

THE Nationals' first extra-inning game of the season resulted in a victory for the St. Louis Browns yesterday when Pitcher Sam Gray stood his ground for eleven innings while four Washington pitchers were having their troubles. Success crowned Gray's efforts in the eleventh inning when his own clean single figured in scoring the run that won the game for the Browns, 7 to 6.

A two-run rally by the Nats in the ninth, which tied the score at 6-6, served only to delay defeat, for Gray quelled all threats thereafter, while E. Garland Braxton was reached for the decisive run.

Washington's defeat is traceable to the four bases on balls which the Nats' pitchers issued. Every recipient of one of these free tickets to first base eventually scored behind some timely hitting by his teammates.

Joe Judge was the hero of the game from the ninth inning until the Browns scored in the eleventh, for it was his single through the box that drove over two runs with two out in the ninth and enabled the Nats to tie the score.

A pinch hitter had relieved Zachary in the ninth and Braxton, the fourth Washington pitcher of the afternoon, proved the ultimate victim of the Browns. Braxton escaped the tenth safely, and so did Gray, despite Bluege's opening single, but he contributed to his own downfall at the start of the eleventh.

Schang, the first batter in the eleventh, was walked. The run that ensued would have been averted had Gray succeeded in two attempts to sacrifice, but he failed, and then sent a clean single to center, advancing Schang to third. McNeely forced Gray, Bluege holding Schang at third, but he scored while Harris was throwing out O'Rourke.

While Gray was registering his sixth victory to lead the league in games won, Washington was employing four pitchers with indifferent success. Milton Gaston was nominated to start against his former teammates and was knocked out of the box in the fourth inning, when the Browns scored three runs. Marberry succeeded him, and Zachary pitched the eighth and ninth.

The Browns failed to score off Gaston in the first, despite clean hits by Manush and Schulte, because Hayes' brilliant relay of West's return throw beat Manush to the plate when the latter tried to score from first on Schulte's long single to center.

The Nats took a one-run lead in the second, when Barnes doubled to left and scored on Ruel's single to center, but the Browns reversed matters by scoring two in the third after two were out. O'Rourke, who had walked, scored on Manush's triple to the right field fence and the latter scored on Schulte's double to the same territory.

Two runs were scored off Gaston in the fourth before he retired in favor of Marberry. Blue singled, Brannon walked and both registered on McNeely's triple to right field. O'Rourke, the first to face Marberry, singled to left, scoring McNeely.

The Nats responded with three runs off Gray. Bucky Harris was the hero of the rally when he hit a long triple to center with the base full and two out. Rice and Ruel were on base by virtue of singles and Bluege was the recipient of a base on balls.

Thereafter Gray held the Nats helpless until the ninth, while Marberry yielded up another run in the sixth. He walked Schang, Gray sacrificed and McNeely sent the runner across with a double to left.

1920 DERBY WINNER NOW STABLE PONY AT PIMLICO

Former Great, Paul Jones, A Servant

"King of Turf" Eight Years Ago Unknown as Lead Horse.

Will Race at 'Hilltop' in Special Event for Ponies.

By CHARLES A. WATSON.

ACCLAIMED by the world in 1920 as the "king of the turf" when he raced to victory in the Kentucky Derby, Paul Jones now does service as a stable pony for William Garth, Virginia's noted trainer and horseman, who has a string of thoroughbreds at the Pimlico Track.

Just beyond the back stretch of the track near the Garth barn, Paul Jones, who in his heydey was swifter than the Arab steeds of old, stands daily and listens to the clatter of the thundering hoofs around the mile strip where once Parole, Ten Broeck and Tom Ochiltree made history.

Quiet and trustworthy, the old Derby winner is now used to lead the 2-year-olds across the infield to the paddock where once he himself stood before the admiring crowds. It would be interesting to know just what goes on in the heart and mind of this once great racer as he nears the monster grand stand and clubhouse. Thousands of racegoers sit and never realize that coming across the field is the former "king of the turf." He seems to sense his duty and he does it to perfection.

Paul Jones, the flashy son of Sea King—May Florence, was foaled in Lexington, Ky., eleven years ago at Hamburg Place, the Breeding farm of John E. Madden, the noted horseman.

Through his veins flows blood from the best stock of Virginia and Kentucky, for his sire was the product of Thomas Fortune Ryan's Oak Ridge Farm near Charlottesville, Va.

The running of the Kentucky Derby of 1920 is still fresh in the minds of turf followers. One of the greatest fields ever assembled went to the post in that year, when a field of seventeen thoroughbreds faced the barrier.

Paul Jones, shaking his great head with flaring nostrils and blazing eyes, came back to the judges' stand after that race with Jockey Ted Rice in the saddle, seemingly to know that he was the victor. He sent down to defeat Upset, the gallant son of Whiskbroom II, who had the distinction of being the only horse to defeat the "horse of the century," Man o' War. In third place finished On Watch, another great racer.

The race, over the mile and a quarter route, was run in 2:09 over a slow track and netted the owners, Ral Parr and J. S Cosden, the neat sum of $30,375.

Paul Jones sensed his great triumph. It was a proud moment in his life, and he looked more magnificent than ever as he paraded before the great throng at Louisville.

Gov. Morrow of Kentucky, in a speech at the conclusion of the classic said "that the victory was no more than we expected from the blood of Kentucky and Paul Jones must be a great horse because he bore the name of a great whisky."

From this triumph Paul Jones went directly to New York where he won the Suburban Handicap as a 3-year-old, defeating Boniface, Exterminator and John P. Grier. Garth, who had been training the gelding, then took him back to Kentucky for the Latonia classic and while working a half mile in 0:46 the famous horse went lame and he was given a rest.

Later J. S Cosden presented Paul Jones to "Uncle Billy," as Garth is familiarly known to everybody about the race track. So gentle is this thoroughbred that Garth's daughter, Mrs J. P. Jones, rides him as a saddle horse. There were some greater horses, but none truer. He would have made a great sire.

"No horse ever had a kinder or sweeter disposition or approached as near perfection as Paul Jones, and he's been that way all his life," remarked Uncle Billy Garth yesterday. Kind and willing hands of the darkies from Virginia who work about the barn care for his wants and the kitchens about the track suffer from a shortage of sugar when his caretakers get near the open bowl.

Every year the officials of Pimlico stage a pony race for the track ponies. The race is usually run on a morning near the end of the meeting and this is the excuse for Paul Jones' presence at Pimlico.

Last year he was left at the post, but finished second after being bumped all over the track. He came this year to atone for that defeat, still game and willing to tackle the mile strip.

At the end of the Maryland Jockey Club's Pimlico meeting Paul Jones will be given his freedom, as Uncle Billy intends to turn him out on the great Ingleside Farm, the home of the Garth's near Charlottesville, Va., located in the shadow of Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson. When Paul Jones has lived to the end of his time he will be put to rest in the Valley of Virginia near the resting place of the great American who drew up the Declaration of Independence.

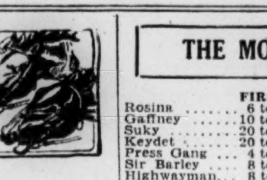
COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS



By BERT E. COLLYER

DERBY dope! Following my custom, I herewith give the most recent advance "dope" on the Kentucky Derby renewal by recording a most sensational move over the Pimlico course early today by SORTIE, A. C. Schwartz's Preakness-Derby candidate. With Clarence Kummer in the saddle, the colt was sent the full derby distance as follows, 0:24, 0:36, 0:48, 1:01, 1:14, 1:27, 1:40, 1:53 3-5 and 2:07. This is far and away the most impressive move either East or West, this season.

REIGH COUNT, the winter book favorite, showed an excellent move Friday over Churchill Downs of 0:24 1-5, 0:48 4-5, 1:13 1-5, 1:39 1-5, 1:53 1-5 and 2:07. The track had been rolled and scraped in preparation for fast trials. Over at Douglas Park, the Viking Stable representative, LAWLEY, showed the best move ever turned in by a 3-year-old over that track, working six furlongs in 0:24, 0:35, 0:47 2-5, 1:00 2-5 and up in 1:13. The course was deep in dust and LAWLEY accomplished his task in the middle of the track. He will be sent the full derby route today.

Down New York way NAFSAK seems best and such shrewd judges as Emil Herz, Col. Phil Chinn and Sam Hildreth believe the Kentucky classic issue to lie between the above-named four.

Over at Pimlico the lads send me the Bryson entry in the fourth as the real persimmon. In this, the Westerner is represented by STITCHES and ANGRY MOOD. As a matter of fact, he can win either. The Ross-Delaney entry may rule favorite, with HONEYCO the dangerous outsider.

The Seagram Stable is fixing to get getaway coin with WANDERING MINSTREL in the sixth. This horse is awfully good at present, and I know the real kale is down in Toronto. Nuff sed!

VERDI is the one to trim and there were whisperings overnight. The Wildrose entry of CROSSCO and GEORGE DE MAR has an outside chance to spill frijoles. This chap, Cherry, is better than a green hand. More anon.

Layton and Hoppe In 3-Cushion Match

New York, May 6 (A.P.).—Johnny Layton, national three-cushion billiard champion, engages Willie Hoppe, American League titleholders, in a 600-point match here this week.

The match, to be played in 12 blocks of 50 points each, opens tomorrow afternoon and ends next Saturday night.

Hoppe defeated Layton, 600 to 531, in a similar match at Chicago last month, a short time after Layton had captured the national crown.

FORT WASHINGTON WINS.

The Fort Washington Team batted hard and timely behind the effective pitching of Sladery and Gorton to win from the Deymer Athletic Club, of Washington, 10 to 4, in their game at the fort yesterday afternoon. For games with Fort Washington call Manager Bainbridge at Main 8035. Visiting teams are guaranteed transportation and meals.

MARLBORO NINE WINS.

Seneca tossers were no match for the Marlboro A. C. yesterday, losing by an 8 to 4 score. Hall pitched hitless ball for six innings for the winners but weakened in the seventh, when the Senecas scored all four of their runs. Rain ended the game at the end of the seventh.

GANZELS BEAT GOSLINS.

The Ganzels defeated the Goose Goslins, 12 to 4, yesterday.

RACE SEASON TO OPEN AT LOUISVILLE

Meeting at Churchill Downs to Start Tomorrow.

LOUISVILLE, May 6 (A.P.).—Churchill Downs once more will become the center of the racing world, the focus of derby candidates and derby hopes, on Tuesday, May 8, opening day of the local spring season.

The Inaugural Handicap at 1 mile for 3-year-olds and upward, feature race of the first day's card, will furnish the first test under colors over the Downs track this year for a number of the derby candidates and their performances will be watched with great interest. Entry lists for the event will be announced Monday and is expected to include several of the outstanding derby hopefuls.

The Clark Handicap will hold attention of racing fans on Saturday. The fifty-fourth running of this classic fixture will see many of the country's leading racers face the barrier. Among them will be Dodgson, a leading Western favorite for the derby. Other horses nominated include Misstep, Valorous, Jock, War Eagle, Chicago, Donivan, Rolled Stocking, Boot to Boot and Buddy Bauer.

Following last night's rain, derby colts already quartered at the local track were given a chance today to see how they liked a muddy oval. Bonivan, winner of the Camden Handicap at Lexington, and Keith, the Farmview Stable's derby hope, showed a decided liking for the heavy going.

The latter stepped three-quarters in 1:17 1-5, the best trial clocked during the day. Bonivan went a half mile in 0:51 2-5.

Irish Pal and Stamford, derby eligibles of the Three D's Stable, ran a mile together, the former being clocked at 1:47 2-5. Penthom, of the Penthorn Stable, breezed three-quarters in 1:20 2-5.

The running of Dodgson over the Lexington course has established the Everglade Stable's fast son of Dodge—Embellish as the probable derby favorite of the blue grass contingent. In his last five stars, Dodgson has won four races. In the other, the Hopeful Stakes at Saratoga, he fell at the post. Brooms won the race. In one test Dodgson finished a length and a half ahead of Misstep, while Reigh Count, early favorite for the derby, was able to place only sixth.

Mt. Rainier Defeats Hilltop Nine, 14-8

The Mount Rainier Baseball Team entered in section B of the Capital City League, defeated the Hilltops yesterday, 14 to 8. Bellman, of the winners, collected three hits.

Close Games Rule as Legion Teams Stage League Debut

Lincoln, Vic's, Standards, Delano, Kelley, Sam Rice, Corinthian, Alexandria Win Opening Games.

THE opening of the American Legion section of the Capital City League was marked by a number of good games in both section A and B. Interest in the opening games was high and interest is expected to be even greater when the teams become outfitted in their new uniform and begin to become known by the name of the post they will play under instead of their original names.

One of the best games was furnished by the Vic's Sport Shop Team of the Sergt. Jaspar Post, and Powhatans, the two battling fourteen innings, the Sport Shop Nine finally winning out, 5 to 4. Lanahan started for the winners and allowed no hits in four innings, and Carter pitched the last ten frames, striking out sixteen men and winning his own game in the fourteenth with a single.

The Lincoln Post Team also got off to a good start in section A, scoring a 10-2 victory over the Plansky Team. Lamar Wyche starred at bat for the winners with three hits, two of them singles and one a triple. Kaplan pitched for the winners and allowed seven hits.

Hallett's home run and triples by Levy and Allman were features of the Boys Club Standards' victory over the Corinthians. The Corinthians were held to six hits. The Mercury Team, which will be known henceforth as the Jane A. Delano Post Team, won a forfeit from the Woodside Team.

The Kelley Midgets, Alexandria Post, No. 24, the Sam Rice and the Corinthian Tigers were the winners in the Section B games. Alexandria defeated the Russels, 6 to 4, but the latter club protested because of the age of several of the Alexandria players. This protest will be decided later by the protest committee of the league. The Cassies also protested their 12-11 defeat by the Corinthian Tigers, claiming to have tied the score in the last inning. This game will also come before the protest committee later.

The Sam Rices, of the Costello Post, the champions last year, scored a 14-4 victory over the St. Stephans Mates was in good form for the winners and allowed only six hits.

The Kelley Midgets played a good game, downing the Park View Team, of the U. S. S. Jacob Jones Post, 9 to 3. Jimmy George, pitcher for the winners, got three hits in four trips to the plate. The winners hit timely throughout the game. Holt connected for a triple and a double.

Umpire for 23 Years Never Missed a Game

Knoxville, Tenn., May 6 (A.P.).—After 23 years of umpiring, during which he has not missed one of his games, Ollie Anderson, a familiar figure in many minor leagues, has begun the new season still enthusiastic over baseball.

Anderson has called balls and strikes in the Pacific Coast League, the American Association, the Western, Texas, New York State leagues, the South Atlantic Association and was with the Federal League during its short but hectic existence.

In addition to his duties as an umpire, he has added the designing of new baseball plants to his work, his latest being the Augusta park, where the New York Giants train.

Australia and Italy Davis Netmen Draw

Genoa, Italy, May 6 (A.P.).—Australia and Italy split even in the first two singles matches of their opening round Davis Cup competition here today.

Baron H. L. de Mopurgo, of Italy, defeated Pat Crawford, young Australian star, but Gerald Patterson, veteran of the Anzac Team, defeated Giorgio de Stefani to square the series. Crawford, somewhat indisposed, will not play in the doubles tomorrow. Hopman will take his place.

Sam West fanned for the second out, but Rice drew a pass from Gray. Judge bounced a single through the box to score Hayes and Jones, who ran for Tate, and tie the score. Barnes failed in an opportunity to bring the winning run across when he flied to left.

ELEVEN games will keep prep school nines busy this week with contests booked every day but Thursday.

Three tilts open the week today with St. John's and Eastern coming together on the Monument Grounds, Gonzaga and the Georgetown Freshmen mixing at the Hilltop and Georgetown Prep entertaining Mount St. Mary's at Garrett Park.

A lone encounter is on tap for Tuesday, Georgetown Prep and St. Albans clashing at Garrett Park. Dreadnaughts Are Upset by Woodridge

St. Joe, Georgetown, Bearcats, Celtics, Harps Win.

Hamel, Augustine and Phipps Are Pitching Stars of Day.

THE Shamrocks, Georgetown A. C., Chevy Chase Bearcats, Woodridge, St. Joseph's and the St. Mary's Celtics got off to a winning start in the opening game of the section A unlimited series of the Capital City League yesterday.

The Georgetown A C. defeated the Petworth on the Silver Spring diamond, 16 to 1; the Jewish Community Center, without good pitching, fell victim to the Chevy Chase Nine, 22 to 13; the Shamrocks downed the Maryland A. C. on the latter's diamond, 11 to 2, St. Joseph's, champions last year, defeated the Arlington, Washington & Barcroft Busmen at Arlington, 8 to 7; Woodridge beat the Dreadnaughts at Dreadnaught Park, Alexandria, 5 to 4, in ten innings, and the Celtics defeated the Addison Nine on the Shipyard Field, Alexandria, 14 to 2.

The most surprising upset of the day was the 5-4 defeat the Woodridge Club handed the Dreadnaughts. The Woodridge Club, hailed as a dark-horse entry of the league, ran true to form and put a strong team on the field.

In this game Gaitey Hamel, former minor league player, spotted the Dreadnaughts four runs in the first inning by giving the first three batters bases on balls, followed by a home run by Sweeney, but he then found himself and allowed only four more scattered hits for the remainder of the game.

Woodridge scored two runs in the third on a triple by Hamel, an error by Collins, a base on balls and a two-base hit by Purdy and in the ninth tied the score on hits by Bleir, Dunn and Fitzgerald and a sacrifice fly by Magee.

Steele placed a safe bunt in the tenth, went to second on Purdy's base on balls and scored the winning run on Simon's double.

The Georgetown A. C., with Phipps allowing the Petworth only six hits, took an easy 16-1 victory. The heavy hitting of the Georgetown Team was a feature, Chaconas, Ortel, Phipps, Taylor and Hilleary leading in the attack on Sherman and Shreve, who were touched for 22 hits in all. Gass, of the Petworth Team, starred at bat for the losers with four hits in four trips to the plate.

Goodman, Simon, Dreifus, Shafer and Sauber toed the mound for the Jewish Community Center Team on the Friendship diamond, but were unable to stem the tide and the Chevy Chase Team won, 22-13. Schneider and Frisbie divided the pitching for the winners. Simon connected for a home run.

With Pete Augustine in rare form, allowing but five hits and collecting four hits himself, the Shamrocks downed the Maryland club, 11 to 2, on the Maryland A. C. diamond.

Corbin and Bradley starred at bat. Maryland A. C. took the lead in the opening game, but the Shamrocks came back in the second with four runs.

H. Tripp relieved Farrington in the ninth inning for the St. Joseph's Team and nipped a rally by the Busmen to give the St. Joe's an 8 to 7 win. Farrington pitched invincible ball for seven frames but then weakened and Tripp went to the mound with the tying and winning runs on base. Hamby and Tucci, of the winners, collected four more and Eddie Cinotti got three hits in five times up.

The young St. Mary's Club took a 14 to 2 game from the Addisons on the Shipyard field, aided by the wildness of the Addison moundsmen. The Celtics received good pitching from Wood and Hamilton. Hamilton's two singles, a double and a homer was a feature of the game, which was witnessed by a large crowd.

HIGHLAND NINE WINNER.

The Washington Highland Nine scored a 9-to-6 victory over Bradbury Heights yesterday. Keough struck out fourteen men. For games, call Adams 6645.

SENIOR NINES IN CLOSE GAMES

CLOSE scores marked all the senior class games yesterday in the Capital City League, with one run run margins figuring in the winning of three of the four tilts played.

Probably the most thrilling finish of the day was the Aztec's ninth-inning squeeze play which won for that team over the T. T. Keane Nine. With McGuire on third, Mulhall injected a perfect bunt down the first base line which sent in the winning run and victory. Fulmer hurled brilliantly for the winners, allowing four hits and striking out six.

Another exciting ending, and one which saw another squeeze play feature, was the game between the Holy Rosary and the Hartfords, which Rosary won by a 7-to-6 score.

A three-run rally in the ninth inning, which included the squeeze play and a timely hit by Caruso, a pinch hitter, were the high lights which grasped victory right out of the hands of the Hartfords, who were coasting in before that time by virtue of an early inning attack.

The D. J. Kaufman Nine, making its debut in league play, made good its preheralded reputation by nosing out Brown & Wood Team, 5 to 4, in a see-saw game.

Albert and Wiles were used on the mound by the winners with telling effect, both pitchers holding the opposition to seven hits. Marks led in the hitting with a pair of timely wallops, while Swift was best for the losers.

Pitcher Rhodes was the star in the Auths' 6-to-3 victory over the Palace Nine, hurling excellent ball in aiding in his team's triumph. Rhodes had but one bad inning, the third, in which the Palace Nine scored all of its runs. After this inning he was invincible, striking out nine and keeping hits well scattered. Sydnor led at the bat for the Auths, getting three hits off of Dearborn and Tonker, Palace pitchers.

GOLF

AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

Youngsters learn the game by imitation.

What is the secret of learning to play a consistently good game?

By EDDIE LOOS

First of all, knowing how the shots are made. Then upon a foundation of understanding, the acquiring of skill through long, unremitting practice.

Practice should consist of a half hour on the practice tee followed by actual playing, once the beginner can hit shots.

This to insure the ability to use the shots in playing instead of merely practicing.

The man starting golf, who is willing to give a summer to half hours of practice followed by a few holes, then returning to the practice to correct the errors developed in playing, will outstrip the golfing majority in a short time.

The youngster acquires the game by imitation, the mature man by understanding and schooling.

Payne Fans 21 Batters To Feature Junior Contest

Hurls Montrose Nine to Victory—Brookland Boys' Club, Congress Heights, Corinthians, Lindberghs and Collegians Also Win.

SIX brisk games opened the junior division of the Capital City League yesterday which saw all of the teams in action with the exception of the Jewish Community Center Juniors, who idled because of drawing a bye in the schedule.

A regular midseason pitchers' battle took place when the Brookland Boys Club nosed out the Hadleys, 2 to 1. This game was exceptionally fast as it was played in 1 hour and 23 minutes, believed to be a record for junior ball. Bishop and Kierney opposed each other on the mound with the latter losing out after outpitching Bishop the greater part of the way. Kierney struck out fifteen batters.

Another close game was fought between the Congress Heights Nine and the Boys Club Arrows, which the former won, 9 to 8. The hitting and fielding of Nelligar and Sweeney, of the winners, and Hortorice and Farran, of the losers, featured. Darkness ended the game after seven innings.

The Corinthians won their game from the Aces through the spectacular relief pitching of Boteler, who relieved Ingalls after the latter weakened. The final score read 7 to 4. Grant Ridgely hit a home run for the Aces. The Corinthians won in the ninth by a three-run rally.

The Lindberghs outslugged the Libertys, 9 to 5, in a game full of hitting. Kopp hurled for the winners and J. Swann was the only Liberty player to solve his delivery consistently, getting three hits.

The Montrose A C., with Payne on the mound, easily defeated the Calhouns, 11 to 2. Payne was in excellent form, striking out 21 men and not allowing a score after the first inning. L. Scheele socked three hits, as did Payne, who aided his own cause in this manner.

Another slugfest ensued when the Collegian A. C. won its game with the Miller Furniture Co Nine, 12 to 9. This game was in doubt until the final out in the ninth inning.

BONDS BEATS BERWYN, 3 TO 2

Roberts and Giddings in Duel; Double-Plays Aid.

THE Bond Clothiers, contemplating entering section B of the unlimited class of the Capital City League, won over the Berwyn A. C. Nine yesterday, 3 to 2, in a hard-fought game at Berwyn.

Roberts and Giddings opposed each other on the mound and engaged in a torrid pitching duel with both being stingy with hits, six coming off the delivery of Roberts and seven off Giddings. Strike-outs were numerous during the fray with each hurler credited with twelve whiffs.

Giddings, of Berwyn, had one bad inning, the fourth, which proved his downfall, as the final score indicates. In this stanza, successive singles by Banta and David, followed by a sacrifice fly by Pat Collins gave the Bonds two runs and the victory.

Roberts faltered somewhat in the eighth inning for Bonds and nearly lost his cunning and the game, but a fast double play, Banta to Colley to Harding, cut a threatening Berwyn rally short after the latter had pushed over one run and had the tying marker resting on third base.

Deaf Boxer Hears After a Few Bouts

Worcester, Mass., May 6 (A.P.).—Boxing as a cure for deafness has an advocate here in Frankie Carter, 118-pound amateur champion of Worcester County.

Carter has been deaf since birth, and, as a result, doctors said, his speech also was affected. A year ago, when Carter was 19 years old, he took up boxing and entered several amateur tournaments with fair success. After a few engagements, Carter said, he was able to hear the gong open and end the rounds, and as his hearing improved the impediments in his speech became less noticeable.

Contractors Open Conference Today

Leading contractors from all parts of the United States will attend the three-day conference, opening this morning at 10 o'clock at the Washington Hotel, under auspices of the Associated General Contractors of America, for the purpose of studying present practices in the building industry, with the view of evolving some method to wipe out the conditions which result in an annual loss of approximately $5,000,000 annually.

Delegates to the conference, representing local construction groups in virtually every State, will be called upon to give consideration to unsound bidding and the award of contracts to irresponsible or incapable bidders. Intensive attention to these matters will be given in divisional sessions to be attended by contractors of buildings, highways, railroads and public works.

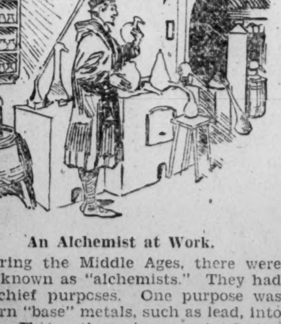
Wonders of Chemistry

I. THE ALCHEMISTS.

PEOPLE in all ages have wished for a life which did not end. Death has seemed to them a tragedy, and they have wanted to avoid it.



An Alchemist at Work.

During the Middle Ages, there were men known as "alchemists." They had two chief purposes. One purpose was to turn "base" metals, such as lead, into gold. Their other aim was to find a way of making human life last forever.

To do those things, the alchemists tried to find a magic substance known as the "philosopher's stone." A single touch from this stone, it was hoped, would make a great chunk of gold. Another touch would give a man life for all time.

In order to put the substance together, the alchemists worked in secret places. They used acids and juices obtained by boiling herbs. Princes, kings and nobles sometimes paid these strange fellows for their labors. It was expected that if success came, the riches obtained would be a thousand times greater than the cost.

Several alchemists claimed that they had found or made a substance which was really the "philosopher's stone." Time proved that they were wrong. So far as I have learned, no alchemists ever grew rich or brought riches to any one else. Nor did any of them find the way to live forever.

It seems to me that it would not be such a good thing to find a stone which could make us live forever. If people lived for all time, the earth would become so crowded that there would hardly be standing room. There would be so many old men and women that there would be no room for more children. What a sad place it would be without boys and girls!

The alchemists wasted their time, but some of them learned important things about chemicals. In later stories we shall see some of the wonders of the science of chemistry which grew out of the work of alchemists.

2,000 ARE EXPECTED AT OPENING SESSION OF CHAMBER TODAY

U. S. Business Men to Consider Entirely New Set of Industrial Problems.

CHANGES IN PRODUCTION POLICY ONE OF THEMES

National Councilors, Presidents and Secretaries Also to Hold Their Meeting.

More than 2,000 business men from all parts of the country are expected to attend the opening session this morning of the sixteenth annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in the auditorium of the organization's headquarters here.

The appearance of an entirely new set of problems in business, growing out of the vast development of productive enterprise during the past 25 years, and the economic forces unloosened by the increase of industrial productivity, especially since the World War, will be considered from the viewpoint of business itself, the consuming public and the Government.

Some of the questions to be considered are the social and moral responsibility of business in the new economic order, the economic effects of legislation, the effects of destructive large scale competition, responsibility of national business to local community development, the growing importance of international trade relations, progressive financing and taxation and the production policies in agriculture.

This year's meeting is expected to signalize the development of a new national economic policy based on mass production. The necessity of changing existing methods to adapt the growing volume of production to national needs will figure largely in the discussion, which will center chiefly upon the possibilities of cooperation to overcome the obvious evils growing out of the greater competition in producing and marketing the products of the country's farms, factories, mines and forests, officials said.

Speakers on List.

Among those who will speak before the meetings are Lewis E. Pierson, president of the organization; Silas H. Strawn, president of the American Bar Association; Alfred Reeves, general manager of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce; Dr. Julius Klein, director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the Department of Commerce, and Donaldson Brown, vice president of the General Motors Corporation.

A meeting of the national councilors presidents and secretaries of the 1,600 organization members of the national chamber with officials of the organization will be held today for the discussion of organization problems. The nominations of seventeen delegates to fill existing vacancies on the board of directors of the organization will be made at today's session.

Nearly $21,000 Raised for Palestine

Contributions totaling several thousands of dollars were reported by workers in the $35,000 United Palestine Appeal last night at a final rally of drive teams at the Jewish Community Center. Nearly $21,000 has been raised so far with but two days remaining for the canvass.

The drive officially closes tomorrow night with a banquet at the Washington Hotel in honor of Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the World Zionist Organization. All contributors of $25 or more to the cause have been invited to the function. William Hard, political writer, Charles J. Stein, president of the local Zionist Organization, and Isidore Hershfield are the other speakers. Levi H. David, president of the Washington Hebrew Congregation, will be toastmaster.

Rehearsals are under way for the spring presentation of the L'Allegro Players of All Souls' Unitarian Church, which will be given in Pierce Hall, Fifteenth and Harvard streets, May 19, at 8 o'clock.

Miss Ina Hawes, chairman of the dramatic committee, has chosen Booth Tarkington's "The Intimate Strangers" in which the young players will be seen. The leading roles will be taken by two well known amateur actors, Miss Elizabeth Skinner and Laurence C Staples. Others in the cast are Harold D. McCoy, Clara Berry, Stuart Donnan, John Evans, Ruth H. Snodgrass and Frances Taggart.

Mrs. Carlton Savage, formerly of the dramatic department of the Oregon State Normal School, is directing the play.

OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS

COLUMBIA

Those who fear that the frequency of his recent screen appearances in the Capital may militate against the effectiveness of Lon Chaney's impersonation of the character of Tito Beppi, greatest of buffoons, in "Laugh, Clown, Laugh," current at Loew's Columbia, may put their minds at rest. There is no trace of resemblance among the figures visualized by this sterling actor in "London After Midnight," "The Big City" and "Laugh, Clown, Laugh," save only in the necessarily identical physical contours of the actor, who in all of these most recent of his vehicles has appeared at least once in his proper proportions—a thing hitherto not wholly to have been expected, in view of his triumph as Quasimodo in "The Hunchback."

"Laugh, Clown Laugh," employs the "Pagliacci" motif almost from the beginning and certainly bases its entire dramatic appeal upon the premise that "the show must go on" and that many a clown, funny to the world, is dying the slow torture of a breaking heart off stage. It is not a cheery drama. The appeal of its well-played climax rests upon the spectacle of sacrificial tragedy and while the man in motley garb who takes an heroic step to prevent a similar act on the part of the young girl he loves, for a moment thrills us with the honesty and depth of his devotion, I, for one, found him a good deal of the time uninteresting.

But perhaps I am not qualified to judge adequately of the most subtle aspects of this study of the European wagon shows. There is introduced an element of neurosis that will have to be referred to the Freudians for final interpretation It involves the opposite effects of the great loves of a clown and a nobleman for the same girl—a waif rescued from the wastelands by Tito and nurtured by him to young womanhood and adeptness on the high wire. This suppressed desire induces paroxysms of uncontrollable laughter on the part of Count Luigi Ravelli; in Tito it induces lachrymose periods of bitter weeping.

Meeting in the office of a famous psychologist and nerve specialist in Rome, these two representatives of opposite extremes of the social scale conclude that they can be of immense help to each other and to Simonetta.

She comes, finally, to love Luigi Then learning of Tito's unexpressed longing for her love, she attempts to break her engagement and perform a duty toward the man whose life has been devoted to her. Sensing her intention to ruin her own happiness to insure his, Tito topples to the floor of an empty variety house while rehearsing a head-slide from the top gallery to the stage and dies in his partner's arms while Simonetta is on her mission of renunciation.

Herbert Brenon, the director, has executed the tale with a fine flair for realistic effect and Chaney does another minutely perfect etching of a character that permits him ample make-up, but no disguise. Loretta Young, the screen's newest "find," is Simonetta and Nils Asther does a beautiful piece of work as Luigi. The play will appeal most poignantly to the elder and more thoughtful theatergoers.

The bill is completed by "Our Lady of Victory," the story of Napoleon and Josephine, done in colors with Otto Matiesen and Agnes Ayres in the pivotal roles; an Aesop Fable, M-G-M News, and an elaborate orchestral overture arranged by Claude Burroughs for the observance of National Music Week.

NELSON B. BELL.

EARLE

At the Earle this week Jack Pepper, that gay and likable young master of ceremonies, not only serves in this capacity but also causes the show to hesitate, if not to come to a full stop, as he dangles his feet in the orchestra pit and sings intimately to his audience. For his last two numbers he is assisted by our old friend, Joe, from the stage band. This aggregation of musicians plays "Mississippi Mud" as its solo contribution to "Sky Blues," the presentation, and it was good, if you like "Mississippi Mud."

The Alexis Kosloff ballet, with Luna Nester as premiere danseuse, travels from Russia to Hawaii by means of several cleverly executed dance numbers. A young lady, whose name we did not catch, pleases in a contralto solo. Charles Elby's eccentric stepping and his pantomime with the spotlight are amusing and well done—and it must be added that he and Cy Landry, seen on F street last week, apparently have a divorced "brother act."

The "Little Club" Boys are excellent harmonizers, and Saturday night's crowds could not get enough of them. The Frolickers dance often and exceedingly well.

The picture this week is First National's "Ladies' Night in a Turkish Bath" in which that inimitable team, Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall are starred, ably assisted by James Finlayson, Sylvia Ashton and Gwynn Williams. The story is about Speed Dewson, a handsome steel worker and his somewhat stormy love affair with Helen Slocum, daughter of "Pa" and "Ma" Slocum, lunch manufacturers. They sell out and move uptown and Ma's efforts at gentility and reducing lead to many amusing situations which culminate in the entrance of "Speed" and "Pa" into a turkish bath on ladies' night in their effort to escape the arms of the law. They finally extricate themselves from their predicament and all ends well as good comedies should. Obviously there are many opportunities for amusing moments which are fully taken advantage of—in a nice way!

The program is completed by an Inkwell comedy, an interesting newsreel and by Daniel Breeskin's music.

RIALTO

To those addicted to "Westerns"—that is to say, screen plays with majestic natural backgrounds, a quick succession of melodramatic climaxes and not too great concern about what in all probability actually would happen in the given circumstances—Zane Grey's stories have no peers. "Open Range," one of his narratives best adapted to the uses of the camera, forms the basis of the entertainment on view at the Rialto Theater this week, and when I viewed it Saturday afternoon impressed me as being one of the foremost of its kind I had ever seen. I am still of that opinion.

The story is one of reckless youth and beautiful young womanhood, with the maturer villainies only allotted that generation of actors who might be described as the contemporaries of "Two-Gun" Bill Hart. In the pivotal roles we have three players with their careers still before them, at least two being ticketed for individual stardom within the year. These are Lane Chandler, who plays the stellar role, and Fred Kohler, the menace. The object of their romantic rivalries is portrayed by Betty Bronson, one of the most charming of silent drama ingenues, as was conclusively demonstrated by her impersonation of Barrie's "Peter Pan."

So here is freshness, vivacity, daring, interpreted by artists of whom we have not grown tired amid surroundings that represent the most impressive works of nature and the studio artisans. To me, a very happy combination.

While "Open Range" adheres to the traditional formula of handsome cowboy hero, demure heroine, cattle rustlers endeavoring to pin their guilt on the puncher from across the range and missing success by a hair; the rodeo, with its varied excitements, the chase by the posse, gun fights and Indian uprising, there still are novelties of treatment sufficient to give the subject a distinct individuality.

What was evidently intended to be the grand final climax, unfortunately, loses something of its "wallop" by reason of Douglas Fairbanks already having stampeded a herd of cattle through the main street of a town as an effective weapon of defense on an earlier Washington screen.

Those of the cast already mentioned turn in splendid performances and are ably supported by Al St. John, who here, I believe, makes his debut as "comedy relief" in feature-drama, Bernard Siegler and a screenful of plainsman, prospectors, cutthroats, Indians and "Flash," the magnificent white horse, ridden by Chandler, as proud an actor as ever lived.

The auxiliaries are all of high merit "Buster's Whippet Race" is a fast-action kid comedy; the International Newsreel is the best in months and "Treasure Land," a natural color study of the West Indian and Windward Islands, visualizes the picturesque Spanish Main.

Rox Rommell's overture, in which he presides at the piano in a potpourri of popular hits, accompanied by the orchestra, is an excellent idea deftly executed and introduces an unidentified male voice in two tuneful ballads.

"THE DYBBUK" WINS SUCCESS AT CENTER

What may be described as the most important contribution to amateur theatricals this season, was presented at the Jewish Community Center last night, when the players of that organization gave the English version of Ansky's famous drama, "The Dybbuk."

Given by a cast that ranks along with the finest of the younger organizations, the production took on all the aspects of a finished presentation.

The plot is fantastic in some places, but through it all there is a comprehensible story, the "Dybbuk" of a young lover taking up an abode in the body of his beloved.

A cast of some 28 persons were included in the performance. Kate Shapiro undertook the highly emotional role of Leah, with great success. Irving Hochman was excellent, and Milton Korman, Nathan Freehof, Milton Rosen, Dr. Charles Gordon, Louis Tannebaum and the others gave a good account of themselves. The production was under the personal direction of Alvin Neuberger.

Rotarians to Hear Talk on Advertising

John Lee Mahin, of New York, will address the Washington Rotary Club at its luncheon Wednesday at the Willard Hotel. His subject will be "The Comparative Value of Advertising Mediums."

Mahin is vice president of Barron G Collier, Inc., & Street Railways Advertising Co., one of the largest advertising organizations in the world. He is well known as an author and lecturer on advertising, having written several books on the subject and having lectured before the leading colleges and advertising clubs in the United States.

PALACE

If I were one who believed that only the profounder things are rightfully to be depicted either upon the stage or upon the screen, or that the artistic in the theater can alone be characterized by the somber measures and sable plumes of tragedy, I should, perforce, be compelled to say that the bill at Loew's Palace Theater this week is terrible. But since I am a fellow of the rabble who always has proclaimed the belief that entertainment is one of the primary functions of the playhouse, I would be less than honest not to admit that the combination of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's production of "The Smart Set" and John Murray Anderson's "Cameos" revue left me limp from laughter and dripping with syncopation yesterday afternoon.

To the performance of William Haines in the stellar role of "The Smart Set" there is no sense whatever. He is the town clown, the village cut-up, the gold plated oracle of wise-cracks and impudence, all rolled into one, demonstrating how any young man of intelligence should not act to win a girl and a place on the International Polo Team. And he wins them both!

In the early sequences, when he falls desperately in love with a lovely young lady parked beside him in a traffic jam, he commits mayhem on his own perfectly good Packard roadster as well as upon her equally swagger sport car in a seemingly futile effort to discover her identity. As it eventuates, she is the daughter of the veteran player whose place he is to take on the polo team in the international matches and they are both bound for the same club. So he invites himself to a party that night, in honor of her father, usurps a place at the table beside the intended partner of his host and in other ways comports himself with such supreme egotism and irresponsibility that he is thrown off the team, out of society, his club and his home. But he bounces back! And you will shriek every step of the way, just as we of yesterday's audience did—about 2,500 of us, all the house would hold

Opposite Haines, who reveals an astounding capacity for being a fool—in private life he would have been murdered, thank heaven, before the end of the first reel—is Alice Day. An admirable foil, with her placid ingenuousness, for the pranking of the star. In other prominent parts are Jack Holt, Hobart Bosworth, Paul Nicholson, Julia Swayne Gordon and numerous others. The polo games are thrilling.

In "Cameos" appear Wesley Eddy and the Palace Syncopators; Sisters and Louise, three captivating vocalists; Coscia and Verdi, comedy instrumentalists; the Foster girls, sixteen gorgeous young women whose "Spider Web" number is exceptional, and Tommy Wonder, a juvenile dancer who stopped the show and looks like the twin of Phillipe De Lacey, prodigy of the films. The finale is a moment of especially well conceived artistry from which the revue derives its name.

J. Virgil Huffman at the organ, Harry Borjes and his orchestra, "Topics of the Day" and M-G-M News are the condiments for the week.

SECOND GROUP GOES TO VETERAN REUNION

Gen. W. L. Wilkerson Heads Confederates on Way to Arkansas Gathering.

A delegation of 30 Confederate Veterans, Sons and Daughters of Confederate Veterans left Washington early this morning to attend the thirty-eighth annual reunion, which opens tomorrow in Little Rock, Ark.

This is the second group from Washington that will attend the reunion, the first group having left Saturday. Gen. W. L. Wilkerson, District of Columbia brigade commander, and Col. John M. Follin, chief of staff, were in charge of the delegation departing this morning.

The Marine Band and 68 pieces accompanied the delegation, it having been authorized by special act of Congress to attend. It will furnish music for the occasion. Gen. Wilkerson's official staff is composed of the following: Col. Follin, G. E. Scaggs, W. S. Walter Lucien Powell and A. B. Waller The women's staff will include: Miss Mary Embrey, sponsor; Miss Virginia Grayson, maid of honor; Miss Lucille Locker, maid of honor; Miss Clara Follin, chaperon, and Mrs. Roberta Edmonston, matron of honor.

HAMMOND, ON RADIO, URGES MORE VOTING

Citizens Blamed for Condition, When Country Is Left to Leaders.

John Hays Hammond made a plea last night for a bigger and more intelligent vote by the citizens of the United States, in an address over the blue network of the National Broadcasting Co.

"This Union of ours," he declared, "is, in effect, a great corporation of which the board of directors is Congress and its president, the President of the United States. Every voting citizen is a shareholder and if the concern is to be managed properly, and his interests as a shareholder are to be protected, the citizen must cast his ballot and not deliver it into the perpetual proxy of party leaders."

The innumerable problems facing the Government, such as tariff regulations, prohibition, immigration, the Mississippi flood control, the Boulder Dam, Muscle Shoals and the crime wave, all are personal matters to the citizen, he said. To fail to register one's vote in all these matters is a betrayal of public trust, he concluded.

FOX

No sighs nor tears at the Fox! It has been officially designated "happiness week" there, and those intent on nursing pet grouches are warned to flee from its portals.

First honors of a full and enjoyable bill should perhaps go to Leon Brusiloff and his orchestra for bringing to a climax their selections from Rio Rita with a synchronized Fox Movietone appearance of J Harold Murray, singing "The Rangers' Song" from the Ziegfeld opus This innovation is carried out with amazing perfection. It is preceded by an organ and vocal rendition of "Love Everlasting," the words floating impressively down from the region of the invisible announcer.

The first stage interlude is an impressionistic "Circus Travesty," which proves a timely and refreshing novelty Featured in it are Josef Turin, tenor; Erma and Lawrence Flowers, acrobats; an imitating clown named "Griffo," and a leopard dance utilizing the ballet and the Helen and Burt Harger Adagio Team. This last is a vividly thrilling number, in which Helen Harger displays a fine sense of the dramatic in addition to lithe grace.

Next comes Benny Davis with his Broadway Revue. This genial composer is quite justified in registering pride during the entire progress of his act. We can't blame him for appreciating Marae Kerns, Dorothy Barber and Jeannette Dietrich and partner in their diversified dance offerings; Helen Lind in her remarkable imitations; Maxine Lewis in her blues song; the youngster who does the "hot" dance, or the young orchestra member who turns comedian and later forms a trio with two of his colleagues in trick songs which bring thunderous applause. As for Mrs. Davis, we were kept busy during her dance thinking what an inspiration she must be to Benny, who completes his share of entertainment with a medley of some of his better-known song hits.

Appreciation was also shown through continuous and hysterical laughter for the feature film offering, "Why Sailors Go Wrong." This is another of those pictures in which a team of funny-faced comedians ventures out to sea. In this case they are shipwrecked on a cannibal island, where before their rescue, they meet with hilarious adventures. If you happen not to care for that sort of thing, you can get your amusement listening to the funny, strangled noises made by those who do. Ted McNamara and Sammy Cohen are the sailors who go wrong.

Fox Movietone News, completing the bill, assumes unusual importance through giving us the voices of the German and Irish fliers, accents and all.

METROPOLITAN

The Metropolitan offers for the second week, "The Noose," an adaptation of the Willard Mack play, starring Richard Barthelmess, supported by Alice Joyce, Lina Basquette and other outstanding players of the cinema world.

Few stories which run the gamut of the emotions have a more genuine appeal than this one, the tale of a youth led into peril of death by evil companions and rescued from doom by mother love.

The plot is one not unfamiliar to devotees of the screen, but the finesse with which "The Noose" is played by Barthelmess and his associates places it in an outstanding class. Here is genuine, deep heart interest portrayed with understanding and capacity. And it is this latter which gives the play its sympathetic range and faultless appeal.

As the doomed youth, Richard Barthelmess gives to the world one of his finest character delineations, shot through from beginning to end with sincerity and vitality. As a mother, Alice Joyce is everything that a mother would be under the circumstances.

Supplementary films to this fine piece are a Bobby Vernon comedy, entitled, "Bugs, My Dear," in which a bug collector's rare possession leads everybody a merry chase; a Kinograms reel of excellent topics, including the Bremen flyers in Washington, ice sports on Lake Placid, the Apple Blossom fete at Winchester and the Spirit of St. Louis at the end of its last journey.

Conrad Nagel charms for a few minutes on Vitaphone announcing next week's bill, and the house orchestra, under Conductor Podnos, keeps the musical ear attuned.

LITTLE THEATER

The Little Theater offers this week a recent U. F. A. production, not seen before in Washington, "The Trial of Donald Westhof," adapted from a novel by Felix Hollander. The film tells a fascinating story of a young man's encounters with the sordidness of life and the baffling ways of love and fate, unfolded with all the technical and psychological relish that the UFA cameras unfailingly display.

The German fondness for the mood of Hamlet betrays itself in the character of Donald Westhof and his attitude toward life; in fact, the parallel is so close in many points that it was probably intended. Spoiled by a doting mother and oppressed by an unpleasant stepfather, he escapes to Berlin, where he is sickened at the degraded social situations with which he comes in touch, and in which he nevertheless becomes deeply involved. The latter part of the story deals with his trial on a charge of murder, slipping off to the level of a common police mystery.

Imre Rady, the nice-looking young actor who plays the part of Donald, comes up to the mark except in a few scenes of stress. Miss Karin Evans is charming as his real sweetheart, the better spirit in his life. The other girl in the case is sadly overdone.

Other films are a legend of the South Seas, in the beautiful technicolor process, an entertaining hoax by Carter de Haven, and the usual news pictures.

Violin and piano, in capable feminine hands, make the interlude pleasant.

M'BRIDE CHEERED PREDICTING DEFEAT OF GOV. AL SMITH

Antisaloon League Head Stirs Citizens Association in Coolidge Church.

MAJ. HESSE IS LAUDED BY DR. ABERNETHY

Superintendent Writes Letter Saying Police Are Trying to Enforce Law.

The decorous walls of the First Congregational Church, which boasts as a member the President of the United States, resounded yesterday afternoon to the cheers and hand clapping of 700 members of the Citizens Service Association, as Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Antisaloon League of America, predicted defeat for "the whole Smith family."

The prediction followed the speaker's rehearsal of the recent dry victories in Chicago and Detroit, in the last of which John W. Smith, running on a wet ticket, was defeated for mayor of the city. Dr. McBride declared after the meeting that if Al Smith were nominated by the Democrats for the Presidency he would be defeated by 10,000,000 votes. He expressed doubt that the New York Governor would be even nominated.

The Antisaloon leader declared that Washington will have more to do with settling the prohibition question than any other city in the country.

Influence of Washington

"The United States begins at Washington," he said. "Washington is the Nation's heart. More than any other city it pumps the blood of the Nation to the remotest part of the country. No other city of the Nation speaks so positively to us concerning national matters as does Washington."

Holding that Congress is dry, the speaker declared there is "no excuse" if that body fails to make good on prohibition in the District.

If the prohibitionists are going to win their fight for law enforcement, they must win it in the cities, he said, adding that there is a larger population in seven city areas than on all the farms in the country. He predicted that 15 years from now the cities "will be in control."

The session opened with a report on a year's activities of the Citizens Service Association, by Dr. W. S. Abernethy, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church. The pastor asserted that "larger fines and longer jail sentences" are the rule in the District today as the result of the association's endeavors. Its workers, however, have been confronted with an apathy on the part of the church people that has been "astounding," he said.

Lauds Maj. Hesse.

He lauded Maj Edwin Hesse, superintendent of police, for the cooperation with the members of the organization, but assailed "the great metropolitan dailies," which he said are 90 per cent opposed to the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment. Newspapers, he said, have created sentiment against law enforcement difficult to overcome.

Representative Henry R Rathbone, of Illinois, another speaker, declared that at least one great party will incorporate an enforcement plank in its platform, and said that no man in public life is entitled to any respect who does not come out openly for prohibition.

"Every automobile upon our city streets is an argument for prohibition," he said. "Every limited train that flashes across the country with its living freight of human beings is one more reason why prohibition must prevail. Every great factory whose smoke wreaths write upon the air the story of American prosperity, writes at the same time unanswerable arguments why prohibitoin must prevail."

Warning by Lowrey.

The concluding address was made by Representative B. G. Lowrey, of Mississippi, who warned that disregard for the law must result "in failure, in wreck and in ruin." There were brief talks by Mrs. N. M. Pollock, president of the District W. C. T. U.; Mrs. David W. Lum, former president of the India W. C. T. U.; Sergt. Oscar J. Letterman, of the police vice squad, and Thomas Jarvis, field secretary of the association. Invocation was by the Rev. Jason Noble Pierce, and benediction by the Rev. Freely Rohrer.

Dr Abernethy read a letter from Maj. Hesse explaining that pressing business alone has prevented his attendance. The letter acknowledged the aid of members of the association, and asked their cooperation in other laws than those bearing on the eighteenth amendment. It is "well known," the letter read, "that members of the police force generally are trying to enforce the law."

An appeal for funds in the neighborhood of $1,500 with which to carry on the work of the organization, was made by the Rev Homer Councilor.

Sees Ruin in Nullification.

Nullification of the eighteenth amendment would mean the disintegration of this Government, Dr. McBride told the congregation of the Calvary Baptist Church, when he spoke from the pulpit at the morning services.

Speaking on the subject, "Is Prohibition Worth Trying to Keep," he asserted that conditions under prohibition "at its worst" are better than under the system of "licensed liquor traffic" which preceded it. The only alternatives, he said, are repeal, nullification, or government control, which he declared would amount to "liquor control of the Government."

"There is still hope for democracy," Dr. McBride said. "The people will go only so far and stand only so much. And then, as they did in the recent Chicago and Detroit elections, they will assert themselves at the polls."

Religious Liberty In Danger, Claim

Religious liberty in the United States is about to be destroyed by the concerted action of seven great American organizations to bring about a religious amendment to the Constitution, Dr. B. G. Wilkinson, dean of theology of the Washington Missionary College, declared last night in his lecture at the Arcadia Auditorium.

He discussed the message of Moses and Elijah, the two men who came back, in its relation to the second coming of Christ, and charged that church movements today are endeavoring to take the kingdom away from Christ.

Rathbone to Talk To Jewish Women

Representative Henry W. Rathbone, of Illinois, will address a meeting of the National Council of Jewish Women this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Jewish Community Center on "Humanitarian Legislation."

Following Representative Rathbone's talk, the council will hold its annual election of officers. Adele Gusach will render selections upon the piano.
